Teachers To Get Raise Despite $4,000,000 Cut In State School Budget

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

Approximately $4,000,000 were slashed from the proposed State educational expansion program Tuesday as Acting Gov. Thompson brought the State budget down to $89,342,538.03.

The anticipated income for the year is $85,000,000, but this is expected to level off to an average of approximately $78,000,000 over a four-year period.

Despite the reductions in school appropriations, Thompson specified that school teachers would get their 50 percent pay raise.

"Not only will this pay raise become a permanent part of the budget, instead of merely a bonus as heretofore," Thompson pointed out, "but we also are increasing by 50 percent the State's contribution to administrative costs. This includes transportation, heating and supplies of local schools."

The proposed increase for common schools would have totaled approximately $16,000,000 had the General Assembly approved the Appropriations Bill and passed revenue measures to finance the expansion.

The Budget Commission, composed of Thompson and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., reduced this expansion to $12,040,000. The Commission first asked State School Supt. M. D. Collins and his officials to trim the budget. The school officials cut the costs approximately $2,000,000. Then the Budget Commission whacked off an additional $2,000,000.

A proposed $1,000,000 annual appropriation for school buildings was lost in this cutting. Another $1,000,000 was saved the State when the proposed $2,000,000 for bus drivers was cut to $850,000. Thompson said that the local communities would supplement the school bus drivers' pay under the new plan which sees the State increasing its contribution to administrative costs by 50 percent.

The Budget Bureau approved an annual budget totalling $35,500,000 for common schools. It left the details of budget slashing to the Board of Education. However, it specified that the Board give priority to payment of the 50 percent increase to school teachers; furnishing textbooks to school children; and increasing the administrative payments to the local school systems.

Thompson and Thrasher said the State budget will be further reduce from the present $89,342,538.03 figure by trimming appropriations to other departments.

Not included in this figure are cuts totaling more than $1,000,000 which are contemplated in abolition of the State Surplus Commodity Agency and reductions in the Georgia Citizens Council and Georgia Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

As he reduced the State's proposed spending toward the $77,302,538.03 of last year's budget, however, Thompson was confronted with a report of dwindling State income.

Although rising nearly $3,000,000 during the first two months over the same period of 1946,

Democrat Is Winner In Chicago Balloting

CHICAGO, April 1—(AP)—Martin H. Kennelly, 59-year-old political newcomer, was elected Mayor of Chicago Tuesday, leading the Democratic city ticket to a smashing victory in the nation's first major 1947 test of political trends.

Kennelly's victory margin, greatest in a Chicago mayoral election in 12 years, continued for another four years the "Big City" control the Democrats have held unbroken in the city since 1930.

Kennelly, silver-haired business man who described himself as an Independent Democrat, was backed by retiring Mayor Edward J. Kelly and his powerful Democratic organization.

He defeated Russell W. Root, 48, who as Cook County Republican Chairman, directed his party to a lopsided victory over Kelly's organization in last November's election, winning 14 of the 17 county offices at stake.

Returns from 3,691 of the city's 4,054 precincts Tuesday night gave Kennelly 837,273 votes to 583,354 for Root.

Kennelly's running mates, Ludwig D. Schreiber for City Clerk and Joseph T. Baran for City Treasurer, also scored easy victories.

The Democratic triumph dealth Republican aspirations a stunning blow. Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, had termed the contest an "important preliminary engagement" in the 1948 presidential battle. Gov. Dwight H. Green's Republican State Organization gave Root its active support.

Heavy Democratic majorities in Chicago helped put Illinois' 28 electoral votes in the Democratic column in the last four presidential elections.

A projection based on three-quarters of the unofficial returns, indicated Kennelly would win by a majority of some 250,000 votes. Nearly complete returns showed he had received in excess of 58 percent of the vote.

This was the Democrats' strongest showing since Mayor Kelly received 75.80 percent of the vote in 1935.

Four years ago, Kelly won by only 114,020 votes over Republican George McKibbin and received only 54.53 percent of the votes cast.

Kennelly, in his first bid for elective office, won a four-year term in a post that pays $18,000 a year and controls 16,000 City Hall jobs.

He has expressed "unalterable opposition" t "graft and corruption" in Government and had made a strong bid for the independent vote.

Root injected international issues in his campaign, criticizing the national administration's handling of foreign affairs and asserting a vote fo. his Democratic opponent would be "a vote for war."

FIRE ALARM YELL NO APRIL FOOL

It wasn't an April Fool joke to the Georgia Power Women's Club, although they laughed it off at first.

Meeting at 849 Juniper St., N. E., Tuesday afternoon, the ladies were interrupted when a stranger poked his head in the door and yelled, "Fire!"

The ladies smiled indulgently and went back to the order of the day.

But when Radio Patrolmen R. J. Bradley and G. M. Robinson poked their heads in and said the same thing, the ladies stopped, sniffed — and stepped out.

BRITONS SEEK REUNION WITH WIVES AFTER RUSSIA BANS EXIT OF WOMEN

LONDON, April 1—(AP)—Fifteen British men protested to Prime Minister Attlee against a Soviet Government decision to refuse exit permits for their Russian wives.

Most were married in Moscow while on wartime duty.

"You will understand this (decision) means separation from our wives and children for the rest of our lives," the telegram said. "We most earnestly beg you not to regard the Russian refusal as final. We cannot believe it is intended to wreck the lives of 32 ordinary people.

"Therefore, we implore you to ask Generalissimo Stalin if he will reconsider this so fateful and terrible decision."

Fuel Agency Extended Pending Coal 'Crisis'

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—Faced with the possibility that the "mourning" work stoppage may extend beyond six days in at least some of the soft coal pits, the Government Tuesday night extended the life of the Solid Fuels Administration to apportion coal in case of emergency.

The Agency's authority to issue orders expired at midnight Monday night, but Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, in charge of the coal mines Administration, ordered that the organization be kept in existence.

A six-day memorial for the 111 victims of the Centralia mine blast began Tuesday.

Hugh White, President of UMW District 12, said at Centralia his Union's members will not return to the Illinois mines Monday unless they are found safe by inspectors and Union members.

A short time earlier, Adolph Pacifico, President of UMW District 6, instructed his followers to shun mines they consider unsafe. District 6 embraces Ohio and the West Virginia Panhandle.

Meanwhile President Truman directed Dr. R. R. Sawyers, outgoing Director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, to remain on the job indefinitely, while Congress investigates the Centralia disaster.

Clark Urged To Crackdown on Communists

WASHINGTON, April 1—(UP)—Chairman J. Parnell Thomas, of the House Un-American Activities Committee, Tuesday asked Atty. Gen. Clark to begin prosecution of the Communist Party and its officials for failure to register as foreign agents and seeking overthrow of the Government.

The New Jersey Republican said in a letter to Clark that the Committee's hearings on bills to curb or outlaw the party had established "beyond any doubt" that it is an agent of a foreign government.

Thomas asked that Clark begin "immediate" prosecution of the party and its officials for violation of the McCormack Registration Act and the Voorhis Act.

Byrd Ice Breaker Back in U. S.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 1—(AP)—The ice-breaker Burton Island arrived Tuesday from a 20,000-mile cruise with Adm. Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition.

Cmdr. Gerald L. Ketchum, of Long Beach, skipper, said the craft bucked solid ice at times 10 feet thick in leading the expedition through the ice barrier into the Bay of Whales.

McKellar Unrelenting in Lilienthal Attack

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—Sen. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, held the Senate floor for the second day Tuesday in his unrelenting attack on the nomination of David E. Lilienthal to be Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

McKellar repeated his accusation Lilienthal has given commission jobs to three men whom the Senator identified as Communists formerly with TVA, which Lilienthal formerly headed. He named the three as Herbert S. Marks, Richard O. Niehoff and James Thomas Ramey. Sen. Knowland, Republican, California, member of the Atomic Energy Committee which voted 8 to 1 for the Lilienthal appointment, told McKellar: "I merely wish to point out there is nothing in the record, directly or indirectly, indicating any of the three men named by the Senator are Communists or Communist sympathizers."

House Tags Bill With GI Benefits, Lunches

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—The congressional economy drive went into reverse Tuesday as the House added $350,000,000 in GI benefits and $6,000,000 for school lunches to a deficiency appropriation bill and then passed the measure, which now totals $2,827,526,186.

Numbers of Republicans joined Democrats in increasing the funds recommended by the House Appropriations Committee. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Also added to the bill was $2,158 to pay back salary claims of three discharged Federal employees, Goodwin B. Watson, Robert Morss Lovett and William E. Dodd, Jr. The three had been cut off the payroll on charges of subversive affiliations, but the Supreme Court ruled their ouster invalid and awarded them back pay.

The House Appropriations Committee refused to approve the pay claims, thereby ignoring the Courts mandate, but the House voted, 110 to 97, to bow to the tribunal and pay the money.

Exiled Premier Holds Franco's Move 'a Fake'

LONDON, April 1—(AP)—Prof. Rodolfo Llopis, Premier of the exiled Spanish Republican Government, declared Tuesday that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's announcement on the creation of a monarchy in Spain was a "crude fake."

Llopis, here to confer with British and Spanish-exile officials about Spain's future, said in a statement that Franco's move "cannot fool anybody, and least of all the monarchists." The Spanish people themselves were reported to be somewhat bewildered about the exact significance of Franco's announcement, made in a radio broadcast Monday night.

Massell Forsyth Tract Sold in $300,000 Deal

One of the largest sales of the year, the two-story and basement building at the northeast corner of Alabama and Forsyth Streets changed hands Tuesday for $300,000, according to a deed filed in Fulton County Superior Court.

Ben J. Massell handled the sale directly for the RAC Realty Company, a Massell Company. The property, occupied by nine tenants at a yearly rental of $32,500, was bought by Mrs. Sarah Arnovitz, of Atlanta, for investment purposes.

Containing 33,000 square feet, the 60-year-old building was bought by Massell two years ago from the John W. Grant estate for $120,000. Extensive remodeling at a cost of $100,000 was completed the first of this year.

Located across the street from The Atlanta Constitution and Rich's, the property fronts 68 feet on Alabama Street and 160 feet on Forsyth Street.

Terms of the transaction included a $160,000 loan payable to the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company with the balance in cash. The loan was handled by the Adair Realty & Loan Company, with Alvin Richards representing Massell and Joseph J. Fine, of Fine and Euford, acting for Mrs. Arnovitz.

The Allan-Grayson Realty Company will continue to handle rents under the new ownership.

Phone Unit Snubs Plan For Parley

WASHINGTON, April 1—(UP) The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company Tuesday night rejected an invitation by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to come here Wednesday for negotiations on a master plan for averting the nation-wide telephone strike set for 6 a. m., April 7.

Schwellenbach sent the invitation to Company officials and to the Southwestern Telephone Workers' Union, an affiliate of the National Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.), which represents 34,000 workers in Southwestern States. The Unior had been asked to send eight representatives.

The Company announced in St. Louis it had turned down the invitation. NFTW officials said here earlier they would accept the bid if the Company did. Union officials were not immediately available for comment on the Company's action.

The Government's plan for heading off the walkout was discussed Tuesday by Government conciliators, American Telephone and Telegraph Company officials and representatives of the American Union of Telephone Workers, representing long lines operators in the New York area.

Schwellenbach's action marked the second time in two days that he has transferred negotiations from local areas. The New York negotiations were moved here Monday.

Wilson Margolis, a Federal conciliator, said "no substantial progress" was made during Tuesday's negotiations, although both parties were "very co-operative and talked over all issues." He said no offers were made by either side.

The NFTW has threatened a nation-wide walkout next Monday unless its demands for a $12 weekly wage increase and improved working conditions are granted.

Meanwhile, the House Labor Committee postponed for 24 hours consideration of a bill authorizing President Truman to direct the Attorney General to obtain a Federal Court injunction against such a strike. The bill would suspend the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction law, as it applies to private employers, in strikes that imperil the public health and safety.

Voting with those to delay the bill was Rep. Wood, of Georgia.

The postponement was forced by Democratic Committee members who said they wanted an opportunity to read the bill, which was sponsored by Chairman Fred A. Hartley, Jr., Republican, New Jer-

ATLANTA-FULTON ACTION

Joint Bureau Sought To Combat Teen Crime

Establishment of an Atlanta-Fulton County Juvenile Bureau to be operated along lines of the Washington (D. C.) Juvenile Bureau, reportedly one of the best in the nation, will be proposed tonight at a meeting of the City Council's Police Committee.

Long advocated by The Atlanta Constitution as a step toward alleviating the City's alarming crime rate, the Bureau would be established within the Atlanta Police Department to work with Fulton County Juvenile authorities.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins conferred Tuesday with Fulton County Juvenile Judge Garland Watkins on final details of the proposed plan, and Jenkins will present it to Police Committee members tonight.

Plans call for the installation of City Detective I. A. Thomas as head of the Juvenile Bureau. If Fulton County authorities agree to pay Thomas' salary, Chief Jenkins proposes, the City would be asked to furnish another man and two policewomen to work with Thomas.

The Police Chief has suggested Miss Emily Hart and Mrs. Ruby Barrett, policewomen now working in the police Vice Squad, for the posts.

The new Bureau, Jenkins explained, would not take the place of the present Fulton County Juvenile Court, but Bureau members would co-ordinate and amplify its activities, going into individual cases; studying home atmosphere and discovering local causes of juvenile delinquency.

The Washington (D. C.) Juvenile Bureau, after which the Fulton County-Atlanta plan is to be patterned, is known nationally for its work in cutting teen-age crime by such methods as aiding youths in finding suitable jobs, organizing young people's clubs and finding civic units to sponsor the clubs.

The Constitution, in an effort to point the way towards a more modern and adequate approach to the City's juvenile crime problem, in 1945 sent several reporters to large cities throughout the nation to study and report on crime prevention methods.

A report on the Washington (D. C.) Bureau convinced Atlanta police authorities of the benefits of that plan, but inadequate manpower on the police force at that time prevented fulfillment of the proposed plan.

10 Pct. Hike Voted by House Body

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—President Truman called upon Congress Tuesday to extend "effective" rent and eviction control until June 30, 1948, for the "proper protection of millions of our American families."

The nation, he said, still faces a critical housing shortage.

Even as his message reached Capitol Hill, the House Banking Committee took these two steps:

1. Approved a blanket 10 percent boost in rent ceilings.

2. Voted to abolish all Government controls over buidling materials and construction.

In a message to both Houses, Mr. Truman stressed the housing dilemma is acute "despite the rapid upswing in residential construction during 1946." Rent controls expire June 30, unless renewed.

"Dwelling accommodations, particularly rental units, are still radically out of balance with demand," the Chief Executive said.

"In 88 Cities surveyed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Bureau of the Census during 1946, vacancies in rental units were virtually non-existent.

"The vacancy rates in habitable accommodations for these cities ranged from zero to a maximum of one percent with an average well below one-half of one percent."

Noting that Congress has recently enacted legislation requiring the liquidation of OPA and the Office of Temporary Controls, Mr. Truman said "I raise no objection" to the transfer of rent controls to the Housing Expediter, Frank R. Creedon.

Rep. Wolcott, Republican, Michigan, Chairman of the House Banking Committee, told reporters that Tuesday's action by the Committee was "tentative" and that final votes will be taken Wednesday.

Rep. Buffett, Republican, Nebraska, who introduced the amendment to raise rents 10 percent, told newsmen:

"I believe it is imperative that Congress recognize by affirmative action the necessity of some increase in rents to compensate property owners in some small part for the increase in costs of rental operations since 1941."

The House Committee's action jarred sharply with that of its Senate counterpart, which Monday rejected a 10 percent blanket increase on rent ceilings proposed by Sen. Bricker, Republican, Ohio.

If the House group removes the "tentative" label Wednesday, the bill will go to the House. If that chamber and the Senate approve differing bills, a joint Senate-House committee probably will be named to thresh out the disagreement.

The House Committee's vote on

New Building Slumps In Greater Atlanta Area

By HOWELL JONES

Despite forecasts by many of the nation's leading housing and building authorities that 1947 would bring an all-time high in new residential and commercial construction throughout the nation, the number of new building permits in and around Atlanta during the first quarter of this year has declined sharply and is lagging far behind figures for the corresponding period in 1946.

According to a survey of Atlanta, Fulton County, DeKalb County, Decatur, East Point, College Park and Hapeville, covering the first three months of 1947, as compared to a like period last year, new permits were off approximately 25 percent over the entire area, with some sections showing declines of as much as 50 percent.

Only two areas registered an increase over last year. DeKalb County, in the midst of large-scale industrialization in its Northern portion, scored new building gains with 301 permits, for construction valued at $1,332,600, issued during the quarter as compared with 248 permits representing expenditures amounting to $910,050 in 1946.

Hapeville, also a center of industrial development, and aided by a 45-home subdivision now under construction by Angus A. Alberson, also showed an increase. Seventy-one permits for building totaling $400,000 were issued during the first three months of 1947, compared with 63 permits representing investments totaling $216,000 during the first quarter of last year.

Elsewhere the percentage of decline ranged from almost 50 percent in Decatur and College Park, formerly centers of intensive building activity, to a conservative 25 percent in Atlanta and in unincorporated areas of Fulton County. East Point showed a drop of about 33 percent.

A consolidation of records, covering the entire area for the first three months of 1947, shows 2,178 permits for building costing approximately $9,792,594 were issued, as compared with 2,966 permits for construction valued at $13,363,269 during the same period last year.

The decline is shown only in permits issued for new construction. Considerable building activity still is in progress throughout the area, especially in the Northern part of DeKalb County and South Fulton County. This building, for the most part, is covered by permits issued in 1946.

Centers for the building activity on permits issued last year are areas adjacent to the General Motors Assembly plant near Chamblee, and the Ford assembly Plant in Hapeville.

Building officials of the various municipalities in the metropolitan area were unable to explain the marked setback in building. Some theorized many prospective builders postponed their plans to build

Continued Cloudiness Forecast for Area

The weather will be true to form, for April, in the Atlanta area today with the forecast of continued cloudiness and mild temperatures.

A high temperature of 68 degrees and a low of 56 degrees is seen. Tuesday's extremes were a high of 66 and a low of 51.

Thursday will be partly cloudy with a high of close to 72 degrees.

BELL BOMBER PLANT TO BECOME UNIT OF AIR MATERIEL COMMAND

By a STAFF CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, April 1—The Bell Bomber Plant at Marietta, Ga., will be utilized as a unit of the Air Materiel Command, the Army Air Forces announced here Wednesday. The plant was put on the surplus property list several months ago, but was withdrawn last weekend.

An AAF spokesman said the war-built plant will not be used for manufacture of aircraft. It turned out B-29s during the war.

The Air Materiel Command is under Lt. Gen. Nathan Twining and its headquarters are at Wright Field, Ohio. It is charged with developing new aircraft, instruments and engines, and with testing and modifying those already in use.

While the Marietta plant was on its surplus list, the AAF retained landing rights on the adjacent airport and permitted the Veterans' Administration to utilize some buildings.

North-South Super Highway Plans For City To Be Determined by PRA

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Type of construction and final location of the $6,000,000 16-mile four-lane North-South traffic artery, designed to speed downtown Atlantic traffic, will be determined by Public Roads Administration Engineers from Washington.

The project will include a viaduct spanning railroads northwest of the existing Spring Street viaduct.

The decision to seek services of the Federal engineers was reached Tuesday at a conference between officials representing the City, the State Highway Department, Robert & Company, engineers engaged by Atlanta to map the project, and B. P. McWhorter, Division Engineer of PRA.

Major point remaining to be settled is whether the north approach to the viaduct, which will cross the railroads by extending Magnolia Street, shall be a continuing bridge over Marietta, Walton, and Luckie Streets and Techwood Drive or whether the approach over those points from Williams Street shall be a surface road, following the contours of the land at an estimated cost of $4,000,000.

Both plans have been prepared by Robert & Company and both the Company and the City are agreeable to them it was said. They have decided to ask PRA to settle on one of them.

The extended bridge system would cost an estimated $6,000,000.

McWhorter said it probably will require two weeks before a decision can be reached, and others attending the conference refused to comment. They said any publication would be premature until the matter is finally settled.

The new project includes a huge new viaduct northwest of the present Spring Street Bridge and is designed to relieve Spring Street of considerable congestion.

All engineers are in agreement on the south approach which would begin at the southern end of the viaduct near Mangum Street and proceed southward to the junction of Nelson and Walker Streets and thence to the Municipal Airport.

The northern approach would be connected at Mangum Street northward into Williams Street and would continue northward, by-passing Buckhead and ending when it strikes the Buford Highway in DeKalb County.

The entire route would be a 4-lane super-highway with a dividing ridge in the center to separate north and south traffic.

City Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson, Tuesday urged Mayor Hartsfield to retain an experienced firm of engineers to obtain the needed right-of-ways, pointing out that other demands on his division will prevent assignment of sufficient forces to do the job expeditiously.

Complete Crime 'Lab' Is Sought for Fulton

By KEELER McCARTNEY.

Establishment of a complete crime laboratory for the Fulton County Police Department—one of the first in the South—will be recommended to County Commission today by County Police Chief G. Neal Ellis, along with a proposed merger of the City-County police identification bureaus.

Ellis is prepared to request that the County absorb the identification bureaus, in turn giving the City full responsibility of operating the City-County police radio system.

Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins also is strongly in favor of the consolidation.

The proposed County identification bureau would include the fulltime services of a chemist or toxicologist, in addition to regular fingerprint and ballistics experts and the like.

Sources close to the County Chief indicate he will recommend the employment of Dr. Herman Jones, of Oglethorpe University. Dr. Jones, widely known in the field of toxicology, often is called in as consultant by law enforcement agencies over the South.

Ellis believes the salary of a toxicologist can be defrayed to a large extent by charging a fee for his services outside Fulton County. He also contends such a move would eliminate the services of a physician now attached to the Coroner's office for autopsies and other examinations.

Plans for the Bureau call for the County taking over the present City Bureau in its entirety and the elimination of record duplications. Ellis said he would favor the use of civilian personnel to operate the Bureau instead of regularly assigned patrolmen.

As a preliminary move to the consolidation, the County Chief has requested that an identification expert be sent here from the FBI offices in Washington to survey the County Bureau and make recommendations for improvement. The County Bureau is rated by the FBI as one of the outstand-

Robert Fulton Hotel City's Target In Court Action On Fire Safeguards

By ALBERT RILEY

The City Government's safety campaign to prevent recurrence of such a disaster as last December's Winecoff Hotel fire aimed court action Tuesday against one of Atlanta's largest and newest downtown hotels—the 15-story, 300-room Robert Fulton.

Owners of the 20-year-old structure at Luckie and Cone Streets were ordered to appear in Recorder's Court Thursday to show cause why they should not comply with an order from the City Building Inspector to correct alleged fire hazards.

The order, issued under the City's nuisance laws, named the West View Corporation as owners and was served on Andrew Smith, Manager of the Hotel.

The action, instituted by Building Inspector O. Marvin Harper, came after repeated warnings from Harper that he would move against property owners who have ignored his orders to make their buildings conform to safety standards.

Harper said the Fulton was one of 15 buildings which more than a month ago had been declared as constituting a nuisance and had been notified to show cause within 30 days why such nuisance should not be abated. Several of the owners of the 15 buildings, including the Fulton owners, failed to heed a warning they would be prosecuted unless they failed to comply, Harper said. Last week the Building Inspector told The Constitution he would institute court action this week against the delinquents.

The nuisance notice on the Robert Fulton was sent by registered mail Feb. 8 to West View, Inc., Harper said, and he exhibited a receipt for the registered mail.

Neither the owners nor the managers of the hotel replied to the notice, he said, and court action was instituted Tuesday after a building inspector had been sent back to the hotel for re-inspection.

Harper also said he received a report from the City Fire Inspector on March 17 that the Robert Fulton had not begun work on safety measures recommended for the structure to make it conform to the City's building codes.

The Building Inspector said the nuisance notice sent to the West View Corporation listed 15 violations of building code regulations and recommended 17 improvements needed to make the structure safer for occupancy as a hotel. The largest single item in the list of recommendations was installation of an additional enclosed exit stairway from the first floor to the roof.

Harper said the hotel's only exits now are one stairway and two elevators, all located in the center of the building.

Installation of fire doors in certain locations, removal of a portion of the winder stairs, removal

'POOR POLITICIAN,' HE SAYS

New State Banking Head First To Rise From Ranks

By JOHN COURIC

When Olin Green Jackson accepted the position of State Superintendent of Banks, he set a precedent. For Jackson, long time public servant, is the first person to rise from the ranks to head of the Department of Banking.

The title of Superintendent of Banks—usually held out as a political plum—of this administration went to a governmental career man who bluntly declares: "I'm a very poor politician."

Quiet, studious Jackson accepted the appointment from Acting Gov. Thompson as a goal for his 23 years of service beginning as an examiner in the Department. His appointment also affected an economy because his job as Assistant Superintendent of Banking was abolished when he stepped up.

Jackson's first act as Superintendent was one of economy for those he serves because he cut the examination fee for State banks by 10 percent. He explained that his Department is receiving more in fees than is needed for operating expenses and that he trimmed some of the excess being taken from the bankers.

Jackson was born in Pike County, but was reared in Upson County. He left Mercer University in his junior year and began teaching school. After two years at Columbus and four years at The Rock, Jackson entered the banking business in Columbus.

From private banking business he went into Government service, first as an examiner for a few months in the Auditing Department, then transferring to the Department of Banking.

He served as Assistant Superintendent of Banks from Jan. 1, 1941, to Nov. 8, 1942, when he was given a leave of absence to become Executive Vice President of the Bank of Albany. He left this position when the banker for whom he was substituting returned from wartime service in the Navy.

On Dec. 1 of last year he became Assistant Superintendent again after a short period as an examiner. And he became head of the Department when Acting Gov. Thompson promoted his superior, John Beasley, to Director of the State Highway Department.

Gas Firms' Competition Speeds Georgia Service

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

Competition between two big pipeline organizations—the United Gas Corporation, of Philadelphia, and the Southern Natural Gas Company, of Birmingham—is hastening the movement of natural gas from the Louisiana and Mississippi fields to 17 Georgia cities, some of them not now served with gas.

the excessive cold weather, the

The cities are: Albany, Americus, Augusta, Bainbridge, Brunswick, Cairo, Cordele, Dublin, Fort Valley, Moultrie, Quitman, Savannah, St. Mary's, Sylvania, Thomasville, Valdosta and Waycross.

The Atlanta Gas Light Company, a distributor for the product of the Southern Natural Gas Company, already serves four of these cities—Augusta, Brunswick, Valdosta and Waycross—with either butane-type or manufactured gas. The new pipelines will put them all on natural gas.

The Company has plans for expansion into the area to be tapped by this proposed new pipeline system, but officers here said they are now unprepared to indicate what cities they intend to incorporate into their area of service.

The hot competition between the two big pipeline companies came to light when the Southern Natural Gas Company Tuesday filed with the Federal Power Commission in Washington an application for a permit to build new pipelines costing $50,245,405.

This is in addition to its previous application, filed recently, for a permit to build a 24-inch pipeline from the Gwinville Field, 40 miles east of Jackson, Miss., to Atlanta, and thus to increase its supply of gas for Atlanta, Birmingham and other cities on the route.

Engineers and surveyors for both the pipeline companies are now in the field in Georgia, and in other Southeastern States, staking out routes for their proposed pipelines. Filing of the new application by the Southern Natural Gas Company comes as a result of this competition.

However the result of this competition, officers of the Atlanta Gas Light Company said a new pipeline into Atlanta would prevent the repetition of the events of last Winter when, because of the excessive cold weather, the Company found it necessary to curtail the supply of gas to its industrial consumers in order to meet the residential demand.

The new application of the Southern Natural Gas Company to the Federal Power Commission seeks permission to lay a 16-inch pipeline from a bend in its system near Auburn, Ala., 225 miles to Colfax, Ga., and a smaller line from Colfax for 152 miles to Georgetown, S. C. This new line would be near Macon and Columbus and thus increase the supply of gas for those cities.

Paul Ascends Greek Throne As National Crisis Hits Peak

ATHENS, April 1—(AP)—George II, twice exiled King of turbulent Greece, died Tuesday afternoon at the height of an international storm over the future of his nation, and his brother, Prince Paul, ascended the unsteady throne.

Death, tentatively attributed to heart trouble, came unexpectedly to the 56-year-old Monarch who, in the 25 years that he bore the title of King, spent only seven years in his Capital.

Acession for his brother, 45-year-old Prince Paul, was automatic under the law. The third son of King Constantine took the scepter of Government less than seven months after his brother returned from his latest exile in London. Paul's son, Prince Constantine, who will be seven years old June 2, became Crown Prince.

The new King took the royal oath in the presence of the Cabinet, members of Parliament, civil and military dignitaries and Archbishop Damaskinos, who served as Regent of Greece before last last September's plebiscite recalled George.

The assemblage formed a semicircle about a table, adorned with a crucifix and candles, for the solemn ceremony.

George died at 1:55 p. m. (6:55 a. m., EST). The new King took the oath at 8 p. m.

George's death came at a time when his nation was the focal point of a diplomatic tug-of-war between the Russian orbit and the Western Powers. The future of Greece was being debated in London, Washington and Moscow in the light of the proposed loan President Truman urged as an attempt to stem the tide of totalitarianism in the Middle East.

George was the target of bitter attacks from the Left, which blamed him for the fierce internecine warfare in the North. Even as tolling churchbells brought news of the Monarch's death to the people, a commission of the United Nations was sitting in neighboring Yugoslavia, examining the causes of Greece's border strife.

Pickpockets Get $1,100 in 2d Big Haul

The second major pickpocket haul in two days was reported to Atlanta police Tuesday.

Undaunted by an intensified anti-pickpocket campaign stirred into action by a $3,500 theft Monday, smoothly working pickpockets flaunted police by removing $1,100, the life savings of J. E. Pirkle, 65, of Alpharetta, from his left trousers pocket, police revealed.

Detectives R. E. Finley and M. W. Blackell stated Pirkle was waiting at the Greyhound Bus Terminal for an Alpharetta bus. He had the $1,100 in large bills in his eyeglass case.

Suspicious, Pirkle checked the money before boarding the bus. Police theorized he must have been seen with the money at this time.

Mounting the bus, Pirkle told the officers, he was jostled, but noticed nothing unusual. At his seat he checked the eyeglass case again and found it missing.

Monday's theft of $3,500 was accomplished in the same manner, while the victim was boarding a bus at Broad and Alabama Streets, police said.

Army, Citizens Hit Deactivation Of Camp Stewart

By LORRAINE NELSON
Constitution Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 1—The War Department, bolstered by a group of Hinesville residents, Tuesday again urged the House Committee on Executive Department Expenditures to turn down a bill by First Georgia District Rep. Prince Preston aimed at forcing the resale of Camp Stewart property to its former owners.

Rep. Preston at the same time submitted to the Committee a letter from Acting Gov. Thompson supporting the return of the area to former owners and other citizens in Long, Liberty, Bryan, Tattnall and Evans Counties, where the camp is located.

Army authorities re-affirmed their desire to keep the camp as an anti-aircraft training center for the National Guard, but Rep. Preston insisted Camp Edwards in Massachusetts and Camp Davis in North Carolina could be utilized for that purpose.

Hinesville residents denied reports "vast numbers" of persons wished to return to the camp site. The Army pointed out it wished to retain Stewart on an inactive status, using it from May 1 to August 15 to train approximately 34,000 enrollees.

'Trouble' Seen If Farmers Run Milk Into New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 1—(AP)—A tense situation prevailed Tuesday in the Louisiana dairy farmers' strike area, where non-union farmers were discussing plans to run their milk to New Orleans under their own protection.

If they do that it "will mean trouble," said Mayor Guy Tyson, of Kentwood, in the heart of the troubled Tangipahoa Parish milk producing section.

"These farmers want to move their milk," Mayor Tyson said. "They have appealed to the Governor for protection. The Governor hasn't done anything. Local officers are not interfering."

It was at Kentwood a group of 50 armed men raided the office of the Dairy Farmers Co-operative Association, non-union, Monday and seized the Association's records.

With marketing facilities still tied up by the strike, members of Gov. Jimmie Davis' arbitration committee, meeting in New Orleans, expressed little hope of mediating the dispute.

State Sen. Lessley P. Gardiner, Committee Chairman, announced the distributors of milk had refused to meet with the Committee, and State Rep. Henry Sevier, of Madison Parish, observed "there isn't much left for us to do but go home."

The strike was called March 24 by Dairy Farmers Local 16 and 22 of Tangipahoa and Washington Parishes, a' the time the New Orleans milk distributors announced a resolution in wholesale price of milk from $5.75 to $5.20 per hundredweight.

Leo Carter, representative of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), with which the locals are affiliated, said the price paid for milk is not the sole issue.

Carter said the union farmers are seeking recognition of their union and contracts with the distributors covering collective bargaining agreement with cooling plant employees and others.

Although much of the supply of milk was shut off from New Orleans in the strike area, the distributors said they were getting supplies from undisclosed sources.

Carter said in two Northern Cities AFL members had refused to load more than 100,000 gallons of milk for shipment to New Orleans.

Meantime, State police were escorting milk trucks in South Mississippi adjacent to the Louisiana disturbed area. Mississippi Safety Commissioner C. R. Bradley said none of the Mississippi milk was being shipped into Louisiana.

DeKalb Probers Seek Identity of 'Floggers'

A special squad of DeKalb County investigators led by County Police Chief Edward L. Foster Tuesday combed the wooded areas in the vicinity of Arabia Lake in an effort to locate clues leading to the identity of four unmasked white men who reportedly flogged a Negro couple and shot the Negro woman.

Chief Foster reported his men had found bloodstains and outer clothing of the Negroes, Aggie Herndon, 46, and his wife, Lottie, 40, at the base of a lone pine tree at Arabia Lake, where the beating was said to have occurred early Tuesday morning.

Police first learned of the attack when they received a telephone call from David Albert, Negro, near Arabia Lake, who asked them to "come quick. Someone's been beaten, and I'm afraid he's bleeding to death."

DeKalb Patrolmen T. T. Wright and C. C. Booth investigated the call and found Herndon at Albert's residence.

Following treatment at Grady Hospital, he told them four unmasked white men had entered his home Monday night, told he and his wife they were "the law" and wanted to ask them about "them things you stole."

The men ordered the couple into an automobile, the Negro related.

As they passed Rockland Church, near Lithonia, Lottie began to cry, he related, and their attackers began beating both of them with flashlights, pistols and blackjacks.

The beating ceased momentarily when they arrived at Arabia Lake and were ordered from the vehicle, but shortly afterward one of the group shot Lottie in the foot, Herndon said. At that point, Herndon ran, finally arriving at the home of Albert.

Later a family in Klondike called police reporting Lottie had stumbled about in the woods all that night and finally arrived at the Klondike community.

At Grady Hospital, Lottie told police after she had been shot a man put his foot on her neck while the others beat her. Later they all drove off in the automobile, she related.

Herndon's employers at the Atlanta Brush Company, said the Negro was one of their most reliable employees and had been with the firm several years.

Informed in Atlanta of the reported flogging and shooting, Acting Gov. Thompson commented:

"I know the Sheriff and the Chief of Police of DeKalb County. I know they are honest, law-abiding people and should be able to properly investigate this matter and to discover those guilty so prope· action may be taken.

"If, however, they feel they need the assistance of the State in any manner, I will be delighted to give any aid they may require."

Heinz Slayer Gets 1 to 2 Years --Plus 'Life' Term

After serving a life sentence for the murder of Henry Heinz, Atlanta capitalist, in 1945, Horace Blalock, Negro, will have to face an additional one to two-year sentence for burglary. Blalock pleaded guilty to six burglary counts in Fulton Superior Court Tuesday.

In Georgia life sentences do not necessarily mean "that," and it is said the average lifer serves only seven years.

Blalock, who allegedly killed Heinz while burglarizing the Heinz mansion, admitted Wednesday to robbing the homes of six other prominent Atlantans, including those of Hughes Spalding, Mrs. T. X. Cheves and John E. Sanford.

After sentencing Blalock, Judge R. H. Humphrey also sentenced George W. Bridges, theater usher, who pleaded guilty to forgery and to shooting at another, to serve four to ten years.

Bridges, 22-year-old former Chicagoan, was arrested February 15 after shooting at Fulton County Patrolman Aubrey Thompson when surprised in a store on Peachtree Road, police records show.

Bridges told the Court he cashed $700 in forged checks after losing his job as usher in an Atlanta theater.

Naval Vet Acquitted Of Manslaughter Charge

A jury in Fulton Superior Court found him innocent of involuntary manslaughter after a two-day trial.

Let's See Now . . .

Mrs. O. H. Abbott and hr son, Austin, the automobile dealer, are very respectful of fire and what it can do. They have reasons for their respect. Their house caught fire once, and while they battled the flames with puny buckets of water, they watched the flames rise higher and higher, destroying everything they touched.

Last week, the Abbotts, mother and son, did something about it. They had a hydrant piped into the hall of their home at 1410 Boulevard Drive, N. E., attached a piece of hose long enough to reach into every corner of their house, added a small fire extinguisher and a businesslike pick axe. For impractical or unwary guests, they labelled the whole setting "For Fire Only," explained grimly they "felt a great deal better than before."

THE ROUTE WAS HOME

As the waitress moved off with the order, the couple in the leather upholstered corner seat slid closer together behind the round table. He produced a road map from his coat pocket, and they began studying it. They were in their 20's, tanned as is they had just come from Sea Island. They moved the water glasses and spread the map out on the table. He took out a pencil and marked a spot. She shook her head, grinned, and drew a line with a red painted fingertip.

An argument followed, and then it was evident that they were deaf mutes. Their fingers fluttered. They talked with their eyes, brows, lips, shoulders. Other luncheon patrons stopped eating to watch, but the two youngsters were oblivious to everyone else in the room . . . Their lunch came. The road map and the argument were put away.

He told a story, his fingers darting. She watched with that birdlike eagerness of those who know limitation and accept it without complaint . . . As they left she looked back and tossed away the road map. They must have been going home after a vacation . . . so the route really didn't matter.

FASHIONABLE TO TELL?

Atlanta's "face-cleaning" campaign, the first since the war ended "Cleanups and Paintups," should be the biggest the city has known, according to Mrs. Gene Berkey, President of the Womans Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the week-long drive.

"The City has offered to pick up any trash and junk which has been stacked on personal property," Mrs. Berkey continued. "They are adding extra trucks for the drive, and welcome pick-up service at Walnut 4463, Ext. 5, or WA. 0481."

"And it's fashionable to tell on your neighbor," she said. Courteous letters are being sent out by Chamber leaders to those who have neglected their properties.

Mrs. Lucie Brantley, Chairman of the campaign, said many firms had reported plans to repair and clean their interiors, and others had indicated willingness to complete their clean-up plans.

THE BEST LAID PLANS

The old adage "Time is money" doesn't quite hold true for Mrs. H. A. Fairley, of 992 Allene Ave., S. W., who said she would have talked to her hubby, 13,000 miles away, as long as the money held out.

Heavy-lidded and nervous, Mrs. Fairley waited from 8 p. m. Monday to 3 a. m. Tuesday to speak T. Sgt. Herbert A. Fairle, a chief operator for Army Signal Operations in Manila. Sgt. Fairley was calling to talk to her on her birthday, and to hear his six-month-old son, Bruce, whom he has never seen, gurgle a little.

The call worked out beautifully, except for one thing. The Fairleys are people who plan everything. "Our baby had to be a boy . . . we planned it that way," Mrs. Fairley said. . . . 'We named him by mail, too. . . . He's got big brown eyes, pretty brown hair, and two teeth and he weighs 18½ pounds and when he grows up he's going to West Point."

Mrs. Fairley wasn't quite sure what her husband was doing before the phone call, but afterward she realized it was one thing she hadn't planned . . . Sgt. Fairley is NCO in charge of 20 Philippine girls.

No Squint, Big Print For These School Tots

By SAM CHAMBLISS

Troubled by poor eyesight since they began school, 13 chidlren in the Sight-Saving Class of the John W. Faith School will not have to squint at their spelling books much longer. They soon will have spellers 9 by 12 inches in size, with letters a fourth of an inch high—spellers handmade by the Junior Red Cross Workshop at Girls High School.

The 13 youngsters have been unable to read ordinary textbook print, though the best optical experts have tried to help them.

The large-print books, made by the Junior Red Cross students on request of Mrs. Carney M. Witcher, teacher of the Sight-Saving Class, will help the children lead a fuller life.

The Faith School has another department where about 10 blind children are being taught Braille.

Here the Girls High students came through with decorated, engraved covers for the young fingers to read.

The Junior Red Cross has the Faith School project as only one of many tasks. The greatest, according to officials, is to teach school students the importance of helping others.

Now, as during the war, groups in each school, through presentation of plays and subscription drives, are accumulating funds to send educational and food boxes to children in foreign countries. Party favors for local veteran hospitals, toys for the city children agencies, hospitals, and homes—all receive attention of the Junior Red Cross.

Through the sale of tinfoil, Junior workers last year supplied 159 pair of fitted eye-glasses to needy children, who were brought to Red Cross attention by school nurses.

Active for the past five years, the Junior Red Cross made its fund drive last November. This year's drive is expected to bring in even more members for a bigger and better city program.

Jack Pershing To Address Campaigners

Dr. William Gardner, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, also will address the meeting, which will be attended by the General Canvass, the County Towns, the Business and the Office Building Divisions.

The Red Cross drive was $60,082 nearer its goal after reports Tuesday by the Public Employees, the Employees and the Special Gifts Divisions. Their new contributions brought the grand total to date to $298,250. This year's goal is $375,000.

The Employees and Public Employees Divisions will meet again at 6:15 p. m. tomorrow at the Ansley Hotel.

Double climax of the drive will come at 6:15 p. m. Friday, when two final dinner-meetings will be held. The General Canvass and County Towns groups will meet at the Georgian Terrace, while the Business and Office Buildings Divisions will convene at the Henry Grady.

Hal Smith, one of the three General Chairmen, made a special appeal Tuesday to group chairmen of the 317 business firms which have not yet reported. He urged that these reports be turned in by Wednesday noon, if possible.

Place Greek Aid Plan Before UNO, If Reds Veto Oust Them, Says Byrd

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Sen. Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, proposed in Washington Tuesday that President Truman's plan to combat Communism in Greece and Turkey be turned over to the United Nations Orgonization, and that Russia be kicked out if that nation vetoes it.

As the Virginian voiced his opinion on United States foreign policy, the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference in Coscow, seeking to reach an agreement on peace terms for defeated Germany, conferred fruitlessly for more than three hours in a semi-secret meeting. They failed to reach any decisions, and discussions were said to have been bitter and blunt.

At Lake Success, N. Y., where delegates to the UNO are working with increasingly troublesome world problems, flags of the 55 member states were at half mast in mourning for King George of Greece, who died suddenly Tuesday morning, but no official notice of his death was taken in either of the two major UNO groups in session during the afternoon.

At a press conference in Washington, Arthur Bliss Lane, who recently resigned as U. S. Ambassador to Poland, told reporters the European situation is dangerous and Russia is leading to a critical impasse by destroying the independence of various European countries.

"If Russia is an enemy, and persists in being an enemy to free peoples," Byrd told the Senate, "It is better to have her outside the family than inside the family.

"If we cannot get along with Russia, what is the use of trying to appease her at the council table, as we have done from time to time in the past, thereby strengthening her hand for a future showdown with us?"

Byrd said Mr. Truman's plan for a $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program overlooks "the great power which this country and associated nations could exert through economic sanctions and other measures for retaliation against Communistic influence."

Byrd suggested this procedure:

"I propose that we request our representative in the United Nations Organization to present the problem of Greece and Turkey to this Organization for action.

"It will go first to the Assembly of Nations composed of 55. If the Assembly approves it, then it will go to the Security Council, where it can be nullified by a veto of any of the Big Five.

"Let Russia, if she pleases, veto it, and then have a showdown with her, and, if need be, take steps to remove the veto privilege.

"If this means the retirement of Russia from the United Nations Organization, it is far better to do that now, because, as long as she continues her selfish and obstructive tactics, there is no hope of the United Nations being a real instrument for the preservation of world peace."

The proposed aid program ran into a new delay Tuesday with a decision by the House Foreign Affairs Committee to hold additional hearings.

King George's death likewise brought up a new factor, but most Congress members predicted it will have little effect on what the United States does in Greece.

Informed quarters in Moscow said that, because of the deadlock, U. S. Secretary of State Marshall probably would seek a meeting soon with Prime Minister Stalin. American sources have maintained consistently that Marshall would not ask for such a meeting until it was apparent that the conference had reached a stalemate.

Such a stalemate was evident Tuesday night, after the executive session of the ministers failed to reconcile Russia's views on reparations with those of Britain and the United States.

An official announcement said the discussion Tuesday was limited to the subjects of level of industry and reparations and "it was agreed to return to formal sessions tomorrow."

The general impression gained at Lake Sucess by talking privately with delegates was that they expected King George's death to have little or no immediate effect on the critical situation within Greece or upon the Greek questions now before the Security Council.

The next important development here on Greece was scheduled to come at Monday's meeting of the council when Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko was expected to give Russia's first official reaction to President Truman's $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey.

Meanwhile, the UN saw these developments on other important issues:

Soviet Russia sent a note to the office of Secretary-General Trygve Lie declaring she would offer no objections Britain's plan for a special session of the General Assembly to take up the Palestine problem.

A similar commitment already had been made by the United States, and although the French and Chinese delegates still awaited instructions from their Governments, on a preliminary poll of the major powers, it was believed unlikely they would oppose the move.

There was some expectation that Victor Hoo, Acting Secretary-General while Lie is in Norway, might announce Wednesday at a news conference (11 a. m., E. S. T.) that machinery was being set in motion to canvass the UNO's 55 members. A majority is necessary to call a special session.

In the Arms Commission, French Delegate Alexandre Parodi recommended a start at once on proposals for a balanced withdrawal of troops of UNO members from foreign lands. He suggested that the commission begin by asking the Military Staff Committee to take a census of troops outside their home territory.

Decatur Lists Body To Study Stadium Plans

A seven-man authority to work out plans for a 10,000-seat stadium on Decatur High School grounds was appointed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Decatur Board of Commissioners.

Members of the authority are Nelson Maynard, Commission member; H. H. Trotti and W. O. Amsler, of the Board of Education; Scott Candler, DeKalb County Commissioner; A. F. Newman, City Manager; Andrew Robertson and Billy Hearn.

Construction will be financed by revenue certificates.

The Commissioners appointed the authority on the recommendation of the Board of Education.

The group also tentatively approved plans for a 50-unit apartment building to be located on Scott Boulevard near Clairmont Avenue and referred plans of the builders, Francis Daves and Asociates, Atlanta architects, to the Planning Commission for Recommendations.

Other building projects approved called for the addition of four classrooms each to the Ponce de Leon and the Winona Park Elementary Schools. An auditorium will be constructed at Ponce de Leon School and a kitchen will be built at the Winona Park School pending approval of bids submitted. Deadline on bids is April 22.

Commissioners tackled the city's traffic problem by adopting an ordinance, effective July 1, providing for traffic around the courthouse square to move in a counter-clockwise manner. The present trolley line, which now runs around the square in a clockwise manner, will be eliminated by that date, Georgia Power Company engineers told the group.

Nahara Denied Liquor License

State Revenue Commissioner Glenn S. Phillips Tuesday denied a liquor license to John Nahara, of Douglas, 300-pound bodyguard of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge.

Nahara exchanged blows with an aide of Former Gov. Ellis Arnall in a free-for-all in the State Capitol when Herman Talmadge seized the Governor's office.

When State revenue officers closed Nahara's store, Phillips disclosed, Nahara applied for the State license, costing $100 annually.

Phillips ordered its denial, saying Nahara had not bothered to apply for a State license when due three months ago.

Let Thoughtful Men Ponder...

Words cannot adequately express the contempt which self-respecting Georgians hold for the quartet of white hoodlums who Monday night flogged a Negro couple in nearby DeKalb County.

By just what process of rationalization their festering minds arrived at the conclusion that such action was indicated or justified, Christian people will never know. Certainly, in many respects, those who perpetrated the outrage are more to be pitied than the poor devils who suffered from it. For the wounds of the latter in time will heal, but the torment of those who conceived and carried out the atrocity will of a certainty forever endure.

Moreover, the consciences of those who, for their own political or pecuniary advantage, have been preaching race hatred in this State should be more than a little troubled. Not only is the blood of these latest of bigotry's victims undeniably on their hands, but also is clearly forecast the pattern we may expect if they persist in their efforts to incite prejudice for personal gain.

Georgia's already bad enough reputation has suffered another blow. Notoriety will accrue to us by virtue of this latest deed, which will not be alleviated even though the floggers are apprehended and punished. And who, remembering the Walton County debacle, can have any real hope that the latter will be the case?

The fearsome thing about this most recent incident, of course, is its portent for the immediate future.

The next 18 months in Georgia will be extremely critical ones for the State. Let thoughtful men ponder the possibilities and resolve to do whatever they can to eliminate the causes from which such atrocities stem.

Patience, Yes, and Firmness

We quite agree with Sec. Marshall that it would be better to have no agreement on Germany than an unfilled one such as that reached at Potsdam.

Of course, all of us have aspirations that the Big Four Foreign Ministers shall reach complete accord in their Moscow deliberations, for it is only through their ability to reconcile their differences that we have any real hope for permanent peace.

Yet the fact remains, as we learned after Potsdam, that pacts must be considered a binder for subsequent co-operation rather than a point of origin for divergent courses of action. Otherwise, they only becloud and confuse the issue.

"Unless we can have a real meeting of minds and a real desire to carry out the spirit and the letter of our agreements, it were better none were reached," Marshall declared. "We can never reach real agreement on the basis of ultimatums or immovable positions. We are all here to resolve and not to accentuate our differences. But we should not seek agreement merely for the sake of agreement."

Sec. Marshall's predecessor had a watchword which served him well in his negotiations with the Russians . . . "Patience and Firmness."

It is still the keynote of our policy, but, having well nigh exhausted the former, perhaps the time has come for more emphasis on the latter.

What a Telephone Strike Will Mean

The continuing lack of progress in negotiations between the nation's telephone companies and their workers is cause for apprehension on the part of the public in general and organized labor in particular.

For certain it is that, if a nation-wide strike is called next Monday, the resulting inconvenience to the public will be trivial indeed compared to the punishment which labor will take at the hands of an already aggravated Congress.

Currently being pushed is a long-overdue bill which would authorize the President to halt the phone strike or any other walkout "threatening the public safety, health or interest." And sure to come, if the looming tie-up of all telephone facilities does materialize, are much more stringent measures.

Rightly or not, let telephone workers remember: Theirs is the power well nigh to destroy labor's immediate future, as well as further to deplete whatever public sympathy remains for the organized workingman.

A Good Record---Keep It Good

The first quarter of 1947 saw a material decline in the number of traffic fatalities in the Atlanta area.

Only five deaths resulting from automobile accidents were reported in January, February and March, as contrasted to 12 during the same three months of last year.

Traffic fatalities are down the nation over, but Atlanta's record is far better than the national average. We can be proud of the progress we have made in saving lives. And we can resolve to continue to show improvement.

Furman Shoals

Editor Constitution: The story in this morning's Constitution, "Power Company Denies Work Near on Furman Shoals Dam," creates an impression which we are very anxious to correct.

We are ready and anxious to complete construction of the Furman Shoals project on the Oconee River as soon as a license has been granted by the Federal Power Commission. At the time the project was first commenced, it was not considered that a license was necessary, but in view of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the New River case and the 1935 amendment to the Federal Power Act it was necessary for the Company to get a ruling from the Federal Power Commission on whether or not the project came within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government and therefore required a license.

Since it was decided in the early part of 1946 that a license was required, the Company filed an application for a permit pursuant to the order of the Commission in June, 1946, and will commence work as soon as practicable after the license is granted by the Commission.

As in the case of the Clark's Hill project, the Company is ready to and will begin work as soon as a license is granted by the Federal Government.

P. S. ARKWRIGHT, JR.,
Georgia Power Company.

Time a-Coming

Editor Constitution: I see our Supreme Court Governor has vetoed the White Primary Bill. I guess you all know he was elected under Eugene Talmadge as Lieutenant Governor. On the White Primary he said he would back up Talmadge, if elected. A Talmadge man or supporter doesn't do anything like that. The people are sorry to know he has gone against his platform that put him in office, but there is a time a-coming—everything will come clean.

E. E. BUFORD.
Cartersville.

Herman at Bottom?

Editor Constitution: In answer to J. A. Byington, of Atlanta, I would like to point out to him that the Supreme Court as well as the Legislature, represents the people of this State.

Herman Talmadge may represent the "heartbeat" of Georgia in Byington's mind, but the people of the State will do well to consider that Hitler started his rise to power by a minority group taking control by force in an emergency under almost the same conditions that Talmadge attempted to grasp.

Far be it from me to try to foretell the outcome of a Georgia election but Talmadge may find himself at the bottom of a landslide instead of the top. Most of the good Democrats of Georgia will hesitate to support a man who bolts his professed party after a candidate has been chosen in a primary and asks for write-in votes against his party's choice for Governor. GENE HOLLIS.
Clayton.

Served Lightly

Editor Constitution: Your editorials are really stimulating and enlightening and, best of all, thought-provoking. Other editorial writers are interesting, too of course, but you have the faculty of being able to think deeply and to "serve it up" lightly, if you know what I mean.

By the way, send Harold Martin back to Florida. I enjoyed his meanderings down there, but frankly, his Washington trip is too disturbing. He makes it difficult for us to fool ourselves after reading what he has to say.

MRS. CARL HALL.
Blue Ridge, Ga.

A Timely Warning

Editor Constitution: This is to inform you of a situation that I feel concerned about, because it is dangerous to the children of Georgia.

I drive a truck, hauling petroleum about over the State. We often take short-cuts over the secondary paved roads, as do many other types of trucks and automobiles.

For the past several weeks, on the days that we have had pretty weather, I have seen several groups of children skating on these secondary paved roads. Skating on a highway is dangerous at any time. The children and their parents probably think that because these roads are not main thoroughfares that they are relatively safe. That is not the case. These secondary roads are often hilly and have many short curves which make them more dangerous than principal highways.

MADISON C. WRIGHT.
Greensboro, Ga.

Atlantans Impolite

Editor Constitution: I would like to say a word about how impolite the Atlanta audiences are whenever there is a concert here in the city.

I noticed this particularly several days ago when Mr. Rubinstein gave a concert. The Auditorium is a large place, it's true, and the concert was a sellout; therefore, there were a great many people present all at once. Coughing and late-comers cannot always be helped, but when a man as talented as Mr. Rubinstein has to sit and wait on the audience before practically every number, I think it's time we of Atlanta stopped to think.

The same thing held true at intermission and also at the end of the concert when Mr. Rubinstein was kind enough to give encores—there was always the same group of people who had to be the first ones out to buy a drink, smoke a cigarette or get their car.

(MISS) BETTY M. SAMET.

Nerves And Rural Life

Many a man in his later years, looking from his office window at smoking stacks and busy streets, feels rise up within him a fierce nostalgia for the peace and calm of his boyhood.

He thinks in terms of babbling brooks and quiet roads; of the swimming hole and the fishing pole.

He may even go home and bore his famliy with the stories of how, as a boy, he got up before dawn in the cold winter months, did the chores, milked and walked four miles to school.

Looking back through the vista of years, he remembers it as Elysian, free from care, far from the madding crowd, serene and soothing, with the scent of hay and mellow tinkling of bells on the twilight air.

But was it?

It may have been.

If was never the carefree life he believes it to be. Men who fled from it recall it with the tinted colorslides of a boy's memory.

What was it that made him leave?

The back-breaking work of clearing new ground?

Too many boys for the farm to support?

The appeal of the city life?

A job with a regular income?

What was it that caused the man of 55, wrapped in a warm, boyish dream in his office, eager to leave it as a boy?

Change America has changed. You get the fleas with the dog. And America has got a new dog, so to speak.

Beginning about 1880 we stepped up our population change. Swiftly the country changed from one with a dominant rural population to one in which most of its people lived in cities, large and small, and depended upon industry or "service" businesses for jobs.

With it came the fleas of union labor, the demand for jobs and old-age security, the endless conflict of economic ebb and flow.

With it came pressure groups, organized crime, vice and the beginning of class warfare. With it came many majestic things, in research, experiment and production.

The steam engine took us by the hand and led us.

The gasoline engine produced good roads, changing the map of the country, remaking its habits, drying up towns, creating new ones.

We got a new dog.

And the fleas.

Country People What about people in the country today, all of them closely attuned to modern industrial pressures?

Are they calmer, more wholesome, better adjusted people? Do the pressures of life, of earning a living, of raising a family, rest more lightly on them?

Do their lives move in a happy, contented round, amid the hum of bees, the song of birds, the "oink" of pigs, the low of cattle at the gate at milking time? Or do toil and lack of recreation take a heavy toll?

Ohio has given us some light—Ohio, where the farm income is more than twice that of the average income in the Southern and Western States—Ohio, where schools have more money and teachers are better paid.

The State mental health officials and psychologists from Ohio State University chose rural Miami County as a study. It has a population of 52,600 and is an area of farms, villages and three towns, the largest being 16,000 in population.

Nerves As summarized for publication, the findings were as follows:

From 10 to 20 percent of the County's residents ought to see a psychiatrist.

"Many . . . live miserably, and at a level far below their real capacity for effective and efficient functioning . . . "

In the past six years, 207 had been committed to institutions; one out of every 23 inhabitants of the County would spend part of his life in a mental institution.

More than 10 percent of its draft-age men were mentally unfit for military service. (Farm boys generally were less mentally fit than city boys.)

One elementary school child in five was "seriously maladjusted"; in six years 1,168 cases of delinquency had come up in court. In the lower grades, rural moppets had better-than-average mental health, but by the time they reached the sixth grade, their neuroses were showing.

The divorce rate was almost 75 percent above the national average (6.2 per 1,000 population vs. 3.6 per 1,000 in the United States as a whole.)

Neuroses were much more common among the poor and ill-educated than among the well-educated; the insanity rate was about the same in both of these groups.

Unlike village and city people, isolated farm families often harbored and hid a psychotic to avoid his commitment to an institution.

Why? What has happened to the rural community? Or has anything happened? Was it always about like the city in its human reactions?

Researchers found the schools in rural Ohio not too good. (More money is spent on their teachers and buildings than in the Southern and Western States.)

Mental hospitals in the Southern States report more than half their patients come from rural communities.

Has the grinding change from a rural to an urban or "city" civilization caused it?

The South, with the machine coming, is going to see at least three million farm workers, especially cotton plantation workers, "coming to town"—some town.

What has happened to the country?

Or is it just the way it always was?

We Are Creatures Of Peculiar Habit

MIAMI—Man is, considering his ways of life in a coldly objective sort of way, a most ridiculous creature. Of course, look deeper and he is a rather noble creation. But think, for a little while, on some of the things he does.

He travels long distances to enjoy a vacation and improve his health. He seeks a salubrious climate for the benefit of his health and, arrived at his chosen spot, he continues to fill his lungs, almost constantly, with the smoke from a weed that he pays a good price to obtain.

Not satisfied with the physique given him by his Creator, not proud that he was "made in the image of God," he covers himself by shaping extra skins he calls clothing out of sheets of materials he makes from the fibers of plants, the hides of dead animals and the excretion of insects.

He devotes a large part of his energy to the concoction of exotic foods, foods he cooks and prepares until nine-tenths of their food value is destroyed. When he is young he spends too much of his substance on such things and dreams too much of fantastic foods he hopes, someday, to afford. And, when he grows old and accumulates such means, he has ruined his digestive system to such extent he can subsist only on the primary pap on which infants feed.

Civilized? He believes himself civilized, yet he advertises his "success" in the game of wealth accumulation by decking out his women in feathers imitative of the adornment of a savage, in flittering bits of stone that he makes artificially "valuable" by controlling their production, by round, shiny blobs taken from the internal irritation of a shellfish.

He creates machines to permit him to move himself at ever increasing speed from the place where he is to some other location which, when he gets there, he will quickly yearn to leave.

Intelligence tells him that all pleasant experiences are more fully enjoyed when the senses are keen and the brain is clear, for best appreciation. Yet, seeking amusement, he imbibes liquids which distort and dull his perceptive powers.

He knows that the daylight is the finest illumination there is, that there is no beauty to surpass the beauty of a moonlight night.

Yet, seeking pleasure, he waits until the sun has set and then sits in a smoke-filled place, artificially lighted and breathes atmosphere foul enough to suffocate any lungs not inured to its chemical properties.

Contrariness He pays a physician when he is sick, thus making it profitable to someone that he remain sick. He pays a lawyer when he is in trouble with the law, thus making it profitable to that profession that he remain in legal difficulty.

And, to cap the climax, he gets into a quarrel with his neighbors of some other nationality and thinks he can decide a question of moral behavior by killing those he calls his "enemies." He calls himself a reasonable being, yet resorts to the unreasonable arbitrament of force—which proves nothing—to settle an ethical question.

Yet, Man Is Fine Yet, despite all his foolishnesses, man is a creature possessing nobility of spirit and the qualities that lift him only "a little lower than the Angels."

Man may stumble in the dust of his material world, man may make himself the absurd comic strip of creation. Yet, higher than materialism, man possesses a mystic thing called spirit, one of the qualities more real because unseen, which can, and some day will, lift him to the high estate for which God created him.

Individual men from time to time demonstrate the high courage and nobility of their souls and thus remind us of the Divine promise that the day is surely coming when the materialistic dross shall be burned away and we shall realize that it is man's spirit which was made "in the image of God," who is Himself a spirit.

Proper Respect For Time

Yesterday was one of those days. What with the phones going, a show rehearsing in the theater, and people popping in and out of the office, it was like backstage at an Olsen and Johnson musical.

One of my appointments was with an ex-soldier who had recently returned from the Pacific. Like a thousand other kids, he was anxious to get a job in the show business.

I told him I'd get in touch with him if I could use him, and asked him to excuse the short interview because I was trying to rush through a lot of work.

He gave me an odd look, smiled and walked to the door.

"What are you grinning about?" I asked.

"Oh, nothing," he said. "I just happened to think of another fellow who was in a hurry."

Something about the way he said it made me curious. I sensed a story, and when you're meeting five deadlines a week, you don't let a story walk out of your office.

"Tell me about the other fellow who was in a hurry," I said.

"He was nobody important," said the ex-GI. "He and his father farmed a little piece of land. Several times a year, they'd load up the ox-cart with vegetables and drive to the nearest city.

"Except for their name and the patch of ground, father and son had little in common. The old man believed in taking it easy.

"One morning, they loaded the cart, hitched up the ox and set out. The young fellow figured that if they kept going all day and night, they'd get to market by next morning. He walked alongside the ox and kept prodding it with a stick.

"'Take it easy,' said the old man. 'You'll last longer.'

"'If we get to market ahead of the others,' said his son 'we have a better chance of getting good prices.'

"The right-hand path led through woodland and wild flowers. The young man was so busy watching the sun sink he didn't notice how lovely the sunset was. Twilight found them in what looked like one big garden. 'Let's sleep here,' said the old man.

"'This is the last trip I take with you,' snapped his son. 'You're more interested in flowers than in making money.'

"'That's the nicest thing you've said in a long time,' smiled the old fellow. A minute later, he was asleep.

"A little before sunrise, the young man shook his father awake. They hitched up and went on. A mile and an hour away, they came upon a farmer trying to pull his cart out of a ditch. 'Let's give him a hand,' said the father.

"'And lose more time?' exploded the son.

"'Relax,' said the old man. 'You might be in a ditch some time yourself.'

"By the time the other cart was back on the road, it was almost eight o'clock.

"Suddenly a great flash of lightning split the sky. Then there was thunder. Beyond the hills, the heavens grew dark.

"'Looks like a big rain in the city,' said the old man.

"'If we had been on time, we'd be sold out by now,' grumbled his son.

"'Take it easy,' said the old gentleman. 'You'll last longer.'

"It wasn't until late in the afternoon that they got to the top of the hill overlooking the town. They looked down at it for a long time. Neither of them spoke. Finally the young man who had been in such a hurry said, 'I see what you mean, father.'

"They turned their cart around and drove away from what had once been the city of Hiroshima."

Thompson Veers Against Second Party

When the National Democratic Party leadership supported Acting Gov. Thompson's pick of a Jefferson Day dinner chairman over Herman Talmadge's selection, it did more than make a choice between the two contenders for heads of the Democratic Party in Georgia. It did more than just say, "We'll take this one instead of that one." The National Party leadership, in embarrassment, backed up and undid an action it already had taken. After appointing a Talmadge friend, Edgar Dunlap, the National Party leadership said it had erred by not awaiting the decision of the Georgia Supreme Court as to who is Georgia's Governor and therefore titular head of the party in Georgia.

Obviously anticipating such a ruling from the National Party, Talmadge, a few hours before the announcement came, declared he didn't give a damn what Washington thinks. Talmadge, himself, may not have cared about Washington, since he had made such a remark in the past to friends. But his political advisors apparently were interested in recognition by the National Democratic Party. The heat placed on the National Party leadership to keep the Talmadgeite as Jefferson Day dinner chairman was terrific.

It was rather amazing the strength the Talmadge faction had with the National Party leadership, in the first place, to get Dunlap named without the recommendation of National Committeeman Ed Rivers and National Committeewoman Virginia Polhill Price and while the Georgia gubernatorial squabble was pending in court.

It has been presumed that the Talmadge group would stage a fight for seats at the National Democratic Convention next year. Does Talmadge's "don't give a damn" statement mean he has conceded the whole battle for national recognition to Thompson?

National Attitude Except for the fact that it previously had announced appointment of a Talmadgeite for the campaign-fund position and he was busy organizing the drive, it is possible the National Democratic Party leadership would not have given a damn what Talmadge thought. It can carry Thompson easier than it can Talmadge. Thompson's elevation to the Governorship was more popular nationally than Talmadge's. Thompson ran before the people for Lieutenant-Governor, and his elevation was supported by the Supreme Court. Talmadge's election by the Legislature was based on 675 votes from persons whom Talmadge, himself, called "bolters" of the Democratic Party. The cry "nigger, nigger, nigger" is not as popular a vote-getter on the national basis as it has been in Georgia. Talmadge was booked for a series of lectures with Gerald L. K. Smith, whose reputation is not a vote-getter for the National Democratic Party. (Talmadge later canceled the booking.) The National Party isn't taking much of a gamble. It has reason to believe that even should the Talmadge faction hold control of the State party, Georgia would still vote the National Democratic ticket.

Split in 1946 Drifting more and more toward a two-party state, Georgia is getting to be a headache for the National Democratic Party, which always has ignored this State as part of the "Solid South." It is getting more difficult for the National Party to try to please all factions who call themselves Democrats in Georgia. It is getting harder to get them around a common dining table to raise money for the national campaign. There was an embarrassing division a year ago. The National Democratic Party dealt through National Committeeman Rivers in naming State Treasurer George Hamilton as head of the dinner. Gov. Arnall suspected Rivers wanted to use this national dinner to launch his campaign for Governor, so he had State Chairman Lon Duckworth walk out on the dinner. The National Party leadership was miffed with Arnall's outspoken liberalism, but it found him helpful in doubtful States—so Arnall spoke for the party in other States, and declined to make a wide-open split with the group at home.

Second Parties While some Thompson friends shouted for a "second party" during the early days of the gubernatorial fight, and many leading figures advised Thompson to sign the Roy Harris-drafted White Primary Bill so that it would be easier to set up a second Democratic Party, Thompson waged his fight "within the party." He thinks it better to label Talmadge, Harris and Jim Peters as "bolters" and try to purge them from leadership in the present State party, than to organize a new group. While some of his followers have denounced the "one-party" system, Thompson denounces Harris and Talmadge for trying to wreck the "one-party" system. Some of his followers became leading figures in the Aroused Citizens of Georgia, a new political movement headed by Blanton Fortson, of Athens. But Thompson apparently recalled the failure of the Weltner Movement a decade ago which also was led by Fortson. While approving the motives that inspired the Aroused Citizens, Thompson apparently doubts that Georgia is ready for a second party.

Just a Rhyme a Day

"Bill is being considered which will give American Indians control over their affairs."—News item.

"I am the master of my Fate" . . . we read this old familiar line
And think how wonderful, how great, magnificent and extra-fine
Our lives would be if this were true; if we could exercise control
And by our efforts might accrue more goods for body and for soul.

This isn't true, we're sad to say, for everyone has a boss—
There's someone we must all obey and someone whom we mustn't cross . . .
The pompous man who "puts on airs" and snaps his fingers at the crowd
May, in his family affairs, be much misused and badly cowed.

Beginning with the lusty squall, which comes when first we draw a breath,
Until we take the final call and exit, hand-in-hand with death,
The doctor, nurse, the minister, our families, the traffic cop,
The sanguine and the sinister forever keep us on the hop.

Somehow we doubt that makng laws, however well they may be planned,
Will help the Indian braves and squaws to keep their destinies in hand.
But if a law can set them free and give them satisfaction-plus
We hope the Congress will agree to try it on the rest of us.

'Monopoly' May Lie In a New Approach

Anytime a feller can get himself a new approach to the thing he is most interested in, the subject becomes brighter and clearer and he gets more zest out of doing the same old job. In most professions or trades or businesses there is only one story, as Mrs. Heywood Broun told her late husband about Gypsy Rose Lee.

"For you," said she to Heywood, "there is only ONE story in Miss Lee." Broun had interviewed the strip-teaser once and Mrs. Broun said this was enough.

Yes, there is only ONE story in most things, but it's the APPROACH that is different. There are many approaches.

TAKE this matter of monopoly in the livestock business. I hit on the idea while making a routine speech the other evening over at Athens. (Thousands of others may have thought of it before, but to me it was original.) The idea is to get yourself a monopoly. You do it by applying the same old rules of successful livestock raising that Milton Jarnigan, Zenas Massey, Byron Southwell and hundreds of others have been teaching all through the years. But the "approach" is different and to me is a great improvement over the normal idea of just going ahead with the usual rules. Let's see if this isn't so.

Suppose I say to myself, "I'm going to try my hardest to have a monopoly on sheep raising." Naturally, I can't raise enough sheep to create a monopoly; the numbers are too great. But if I can "outraise" the other fellows; if I can raise them cheaper than my competitors I possess a monopoly to that extent.

This may not be the precise meaning of monopoly but it is in line with the thoughts that many people have when they think of monopoly. They complain of big business, the chain stores in particular, because of their enormous purchasing power. The critics say that the smaller merchants ("little fellow" is the favorite expression) cannot compete with the big fellow because the latter has the advantage of quantity purchasing. Well, this principle holds with the sheep raiser, seeking the monopoly. He will raise them cheaper, thereby establishing his practical monopoly.

FROM HERE on we go right ahead with our usual rules of successful sheep raising; making cheaper feed, keeping the worms out of the sheep, removing the external parasites, feeding them properly, using good breeding stock and so on and on, as we have been taught to do.

But the approach makes us actually do these things, for we are after creating a monopoly for ourselves.

Fishy Scheme for Bureaucrats

Rep. John Taber, as Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has been slashing the appropriations of Government agencies with all of the zeal of a small boy attacking a watermelon. It is hoped that he will not overlook one appropriation where he could save the Government money and needless duplication and, in addition, defeat the efforts of certain conniving lobbyists inside and outside of the Government.

In the closing days of the last session of Congress, these termitic lobbyists sneaked into an authorization bill for the Department of Agriculture a provision that must have made Izaak Walton's ghost walk. The department was given the power to make surveys of all agricultural products, including fish and shellfish. This work is already being done by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior. Nevertheless, the Department of Agriculture has asked for $19,000,000, part of which would be spent to make duplicating surveys of those purely agricultural products, fish and shellfish.

THAT FISH and shellfish are "farm products" will be news to most Americans. I am sure that there is many a former farm boy who still remembers occasions when the strap was applied to him in the barn because he got caught fishing when he should have been farming. He would not have been on the farm but probably in Wall Street if he had been slick enough to convince an irate father that fish were an agricultural product. I know from experience the type of reasoning that has been developed by the bureaucrats in agriculture. As applied to fish and shellfish it would run: "Fish and shellfish, when gathered or caught, are 'crops.' Crops connote agriculture. Therefore, fish and shellfish are farm products." According to this simple formula, the farm boy of this generation would not have to go fishing. Since fishing is farming and, therefore, farming is fishing, he would be going fishing if he worked on the farm.

Whether statistics about fish and shellfish shall be collected by the Department of Agriculture, or by some other department, may seem to be an unimportant question. But it is not unimportant to the fishermen of America, thousands of whom have urged that the Department of the Interior retain jurisdiction over fish and shellfish. Nor is the question unimportant to the fish wholesalers who chip in thousands of dollars every year to maintain an overpriced lobbyist in Washington.

This authorization was jammed through during the rush that, as usual, attended the closing days of the seventy-ninth Congress. Incidentally, this end-of-session-rush is a basement bargain day for the lobbyists. For them it is the nearest thing to heaven on earth that this country affords. It is in this final rush, when Congressmen are besieged with a thousand calls upon their time, that the lobbyist can do his most effective work. Then he can take his plow or combine and go fishing.

THE DEPARTMENT of Agriculture has long cast covetous eyes upon the Fish and Wildlife Service and finally it has succeeded in getting its foot in the crack of the door by introducing last June a perfunctory bill authorizing it to make agricultural surveys, collect data and the like. On the twenty-sixth day of July, when the Senate Agriculture Committee was holding an executive session with all reporters barred, a lobbyist for the fish wholesalers suggested the insertion of three little words in the bill. Just three little innocuous words, no longer than baby minnows, defining agricultural products so that they would include the words fish and shellfish! The committee naively agreed and reported out the bill. Three days later it was passed by the Senate. The next day the House acted in like manner.

The eightieth Congress has a chance to rectify this error. The Congress must appropriate funds if it is to implement this scaly scheme designed to take fish and shellfish surveys away from the Fish and Wildlife Service and place them in agriculture. Moreover, it would be saving the taxpayers' money and preventing duplication even if it would be disturbing a lobbyist's dream.

GALLUP POLL

Vets Support Truman Policy

PRINCETON, N. J., April 1—Veterans of World War II, who risked their lives to insure peace throughout the world, vote in favor of President Truman's aid-to-Greece policy by a majority as large as the rest of the country.

The Institute recently completed an intensive survey of public reaction to the "Truman doctrine," using a whole series of questions to bring out attitudes on various different aspects of the issue.

The veterans included in the sampling voted as follows:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the bill asking for 250 million dollars to aid Greece?"

| Veterans of World War II | |
|---|---|
| Yes | 57% |
| No | 36 |
| No opinion | 7 |

The vote for the whole public, as reported last week, was as follows:

| All U. S. | |
|---|---|
| Yes | 56% |
| No | 32 |
| No opinion | 12 |

Majority opinion among the veterans questioned in the sample is best reflected in what one ex-GI, who saw service in both France and Germany, told an interviewer for the Institute.

"I don't care so much about the Greeks, but I calculate that if we let the Commies take over Greece we'd have to kiss goodbye to Europe pretty soon and get out. I think we'd be suckers to get out till we've patched Europe up enough to make sure there'll be no more wars."

The minority opinion among the veterans, consisting of the 36 percent who oppose our proposed action in Greece, is that once we start aiding Greece there will be no end to it.

"Britain tried to bail Greece out," said one vet, "and she couldn't do it. Can we do any better?"

THE Administration's steps to keep the United Nations posted on its plans in Greece and Turkey fit in closely with the general public's attitude.

Last week's poll found that, while American voters understand the reasons given by Washington for not leaving action up to the UN, nevertheless they have faith in the UN and under ideal circumstances would have liked to see the UN handle the controversy.

The survey also found that, at this stage in the discussion, the country is not afraid that the aid to Greece and Turkey will involve us in war. A total of 30 percent felt that it would lead to war, while 54 percent said they thought it would not, and 16 percent gave no opinion.

The biggest question mark in the mind of the public, the poll found is whether the Greek and Turkish Governments which we are supporting have the backing of a majority of their own people. Approximately four in ten in the case of the Greek Government, and five in ten in the case of Turkey, frankly said they did not know.

It Took Genius To Make an Arrowhead

I guess I am just a frustrated archeologist at heart. I remember back in my youth, when I got a dollar a day during the summer vacations for plowing a mule named Ida for my grandpa, Talmon Harber, I was constantly being lured from my labors by plowing up an arrowhead. Now nearly any man, when he plows up an arrowhead, will stop and pick it up and put it in his pocket and take it home and put it in a drawer somewhere and forget about it. But I couldn't be content with that. I would stop the mule and sit down in the middle of the row and study the arrowhead and wonder about it.

There are a lot of things to wonder about when you are studying an arrowhead. An arrowhead is an amazing projectile, and the man who made it was something of a genius. He was an artisan whose touch had a jewelers precision. He had to take a piece of stone and strike it with another piece of stone in such a way that little pieces would flake off exactly as he wanted them too. If he struck a little too hard, or in a wrong direction, the whole thing would shatter in his hands.

In fact, for all the wonderful genius of the modern man, I doubt that there is one out of a thousand who could make an arrowhead that would be worth a hoot.

I used to wonder a lot about the man whose used the arrowhead I had found. I would wonder how old he was, and how tall, and how much he weighed, and how he dressed. I wondered what kind of house he lived in, and what he ate. And I used to wonder what would happen if suddenly time would spin back five hundred or maybe a thousand years, and I should suddenly find myself in his time and he and I suddenly came face to face. I wondered if he would run, or whether I would. And if neither ran, whether I could ever explain to him about such things as the automobile and the telephone and the radio. If you ever want to realize how little we know of the things we use every day, just sit down sometime and figure out how you'd go about making a radio, say, or something so simple as a typewriter. Or even how you would explain them to somebody who had never seen one.

Then I used to wonder about what the Indian who shot this arrow was shooting at, when he lost it, whether he was shooting at a deer or a rabbit or a bird, and whether he stopped to look for it or not, and how many he had with him when he shot this one, and whether or not he went back to his tepee empty-handed and his wife gave him the devil for not bringing home any meat for the pot.

I wondered a lot about what the world looked like when he wandered along here and fired this arrow and lost it—whether the trees were pine or hardwood, and how they looked, and whether or not there was undergrowth, or whether it was clear and parklike in the uncut woods of his day.

Awakening There were a million things that the finding of one arrowhead could bring to mind, and sometimes I would sit there and wonder an hour or more before my grandpa, from up at the house, would notice that the mule wasn't moving and come tearing down across the field to make his daily speech about town boys being trifling and not worth shucks. I used to try to ask him about arrowheads, and Indians, for, to me, being young, he seemed old enough to have seen them when he was a boy. But I guess he didn't. He didn't seem to know much about them or care anything for their artifacts. He knew and understood mules and cotton, and rain and wind and soil and sunshine, and he was always thinking about them, but not about arrowheads.

And sometimes I would try to explain that wondering about arrowheads and Indians was just the same as if somebody, a thousand years from now, should find the rusty plowpoint I was using, and take it up and turn it in his hands, and wonder what I looked like and what I wore and ate and how I spoke, and whether the plowpoint was a weapon or a tool, and how it happened to be lying there in the earth.

Vanished Race But my grandpa thought this was foolish talk. When that time came, he said, we'd be as dead as the Indian and what somebody else wondered or thought about us wouldn't make any more difference to us than my sitting there woolgathering about the arrowhead made to the Indian. And if I didn't get after that grass it was going to take the cotton, and, anyhow, town boys . . .

I don't know how I happened to get off on this, except that there was a story in the paper the other day which said they were going to dig into and explore the old Indian town sites before the waters of the Allatoona reservoir cover them up. And I am glad they are, because I still wonder a lot about the men who walked this earth long before the white man came and who are gone now, vanished and lost and gone as completely as if they never lived.

Employment Service Weakened by Fund Cut

WASHINGTON—In the numerous drastic economies which the House voted a few days ago in the Labor Department's appropriation for next year it carved the United States Employment Service down to such a skeleton that it will be incapable of maintaining a national employment system.

That was the purpose for which it was created, back in 1933, in the midst of depression. In the Wagner-Peyser Act, Congress recognized unemployment as a national problem by setting up USES to cooperate with State employment services in finding jobs.

In the years since, USES has justified itself for its services, in co-operation with the States, to industry, labor, and more recently to veterans. It functioned so effectively, built up standards and procedures for job-placement so well, that when the war came it was assigned the task of channeling millions of workers into war industry, a big job which it did most capably. Because of the emergency, USES was given temporary control and direction of State employment systems. The system, in short, was federalized.

AFTER the war Congress restored the Federal-State co-operative system, turning control of State employment services back to the States. USES, however, was to continue its functions of coordinating and assisting the States as provided by law.

That is, until the House acted last week. With a broad sweep the House knocked its appropriation to $900,000, a 74 percent cut below President Truman's budget recommendation. That will require the agency to reduce its staff from 875 to 202 and to close all of its regional offices with the possible exception of one on the Pacific Coast. About all it would be able to do would be to serve as a fiscal agent to review State budget requests for funds appropriated for maintenance of State systems and to audit accounts.

Protests already are coming in from certain types of business that require seasonal labor, particularly canners—which indicates the need of a national clearing house for transient labor. But further than this, the USES also serves all sorts of business and industry of stable employment. The search for skilled help and the search of skilled help for jobs know no State lines.

During the war, USES compiled a job dictionary which listed some 30,000 job classifications and kept this constantly up to date, so that the call from one locality for certain types of skills could be met from another locality through the clearing house.

This sort of service would have to be stopped under the appropriations cut. Congress would be taking quite a responsibility in doing away with it, with at least the prospect of a recession being forecast by economists. This will be one concern that will face the Senate when it considers the Labor Department bill. States are unable individually to perform this clearing-house function adequately, for obvious reasons.

BUT THAT is only one function that would be affected. Another is a job-occupational analysis carried on in co-operation with industry that industry has found valuable. Still another is a job placement program just started in connection with colleges and universities for GI students who will graduate as specialists of one sort or another. This is a service USES provides, among others, for the Veterans Employment Service, the appropriation for which was itself cut 34 percent to $1,756,800, so that the staff of that service also will be reduced here to only a handful.

What is seen, if the House action is upheld by the Senate, is a slow deterioration of the national employment system. For USES also helped, by its surveys and its surveillance, to keep up standards in States to protect labor. There is a tendency in States, under pressure of special interests, to whittle down standards.

What happened in the House is recognized as a campaign by States'-righters, backed by some employment interests, to get complete control of the employment system back in the States, with no Federal Government over-see. Thus it could be weakened for the benefit of special interests and to the detriment of labor.

Coast Guard Plane Wreck Fatal

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 1—(AP)—One man was killed when a U. S. Coast Guard flying boat crashed in Tampa Bay Tuesday.

Eight other men were saved.

Dead is Donald L. Nigrelli, 23, whose family lives in Gary, Ind. His wife of three weeks, Evelyn Swanson Nigrelli, lives in St. Petersburg.

U. S. Must Be Prepared, Vice Admiral Tells Solons

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—V. Adm. Forrest Sherman told Congress Tuesday the atomic age requires that the United States be prepared to mobilize instantly all resources—industrial and civilian as well as military—in event of war.

Sherman, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, testified to the Senate Armed Services Committee in support of pending legislation to unify the Army and Navy under a secretary of national defense.

The Navy officer said an important feature of the measure is its provisions for a national security resources board which would coordinate mobilization plans.

Sherman said the plan "will provide permanent machinery for the formation of integrated programs for the most effective use of the nation's military, human, natural, and industrial resources in the interest of national security."

5,000 Marines Out of China

SHANGHAI, April 1—(AP)—Five thousand American Marines have been withdrawn from North China to Guam since Feb. 1, Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., commander of U. S. Naval Forces in the Western Pacific, said Tuesday.

U. S. Forces began to withdraw after the State Department announced Jan. 29 that the United States had decided to end its connection with executive (truce) headquarters at Peiping.

From Peiping, Associated Press Correspondent John Roderick reported that a portion of the First Pioneer Battalion had left Tientsin, but that the Fifth Marines were still intact at Peiping. He estimated 8,000 to 10,000 remained in China.

Roderick said the departure of the last big group of American executive headquarters personnel from Taku April 10 was expected to be the signal for complete withdrawal of the Marines.

ON THE "SHUTTERBUG" FIRING LINE—thousands of camera enthusiasts converged on the Municipal Auditorium for the two-day Photographic Clinic sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution and they came, most of them, armed with their cameras to make pictures of the pretty models at the show. One of the models was Miss Bettie Fine—"Miss Want Ad"—and The Constitution offered $100 in cash prizes and an expensive piece of photographic equipment for the best pictures made of her. All pictures must be in the hands of The Constitution Photographic judges by midnight Sunday.

Constitution Photo Clinic Scores 'Tops' With 10,000 Shutterbugs

By BILL BORING

The Atlanta Constitution's first annual Photographic Clinic ended on a brilliant note of triumph Tuesday night when several thousand milling camera fans attended the closing sessions.

An estimated 10,000 shutterbugs —from Georgia, the Southeast and the nation at large—attended the two-day Clinic which wrote photographic history in this country.

Camera authorities joined in styling it the greatest show of its kind ever presented.

More than 5,000 camera bugs were on hand for Monday's charter day events and throughout Tuesday an equally large, or greater crowd, was present.

Meanwhile, it developed that on the basis of the success of The Constitution's Clinic other large American cities will follow suit, using the Atlanta show as a model.

First to hit the photographic showboards will be New York. Camera officials from that city, here to pick up ideas and to gauge public enthusiasm in The Constitution Clinic, said, at the conclusion of the Clinic, they are now convinced a Gotham show can't miss.

New York will follow Atlanta, it was announced by Wilfred L. Knighton, Secretary of the Photographic Merchandising & Distributing Association, Inc., with a three-day camera carnival beginning May 16.

Even before the concluding session of The Constitution Clinic, plans were being formulated for next year's Clinic. Drawing on experience gained in this year's initial Clinic, The Constitution backers of the novel camera event expressed the assurance next year's Clinic will be bigger and better.

Something new in Photography, the Clinic this year was more or less an experiment, sponsored by The Constitution as a service to the thousands of amateur camera enthusiasts of the Southeast.

The enthusiasm with which the shutterbugs accepted the Clinic justifies its annual continuation, it was announced.

Hy Schwartz, President of the Photographic Merchandising & Distributing Association, Inc., who addressed the Clinic Tuesday afternoon and who attended all of its sessions, said the success of the spectacle surpassed his highest expectations.

Schwartz, in his address, discussed phases of flash photography, using six different cameras to demonstrate the simplicity of applying and using synchronizing equipment. He showed that no matter what type camera, or how old, it is easily adaptable to flash photography and its use comes easy to the fan, providing him greater camera enjoyment.

Other speakers on Tuesday afternoon's program were Ed Stevens, of Stevens Pictures, Inc., who discussed motion pictures; A. H. Frye, of Eastman Kodak Stores, who demonstrated the art of making pictures others, as well as the photographer, will like; and Ansco representatives, who demonstrated color printing.

Walt Trimby, of Graflex, Inc.; C. H. Roberts, of General Electric, and Bob Kleinfeld, of Wabash Corporation, were in Tuesday night's lecture spots.

Rich's exhibit was judged best in the show and the firm was awarded a handsome trophy by Allied Retouchers. Presentation was made by Knighton, of the Photographic Merchandising & Distributing Association, Inc.

Cameras were awarded contest winners at the concluding session Tuesday. The cameras were gifts of Rich's and Davison's.

Eighteen commercial dealers joined The Constitution in putting on this year's show. They were Allied Retouchers, Atlanta Photo Supply Company, Calhoun Company, Camera Service Company, Carlyle Studios, Color-Graphic, Concord Camera, Davison's, Distributors' Group, Eastman Kodak Stores, Inc., Gaston's, Isengor Camera Exchange, LaSalle Studios Rich's Inc., Stevens Pictures, Inc., Strickland Film Company, Thaxton-Simonds Laboratories, and Wing's Fast Foto Service.

A SWISS AND HIS SAILBOAT

'Women Run U. S.,' Visitor Says

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

When Hans de Meiss-Teuffen, a tall, ruddy complexioned, self-styled "vagabond," crossed the Atlantic Ocean last year alone in a sailboat, he did it to win a bet of two boxes of Swiss chocolates.

"As yet," Hans sighed in Atlanta Tuesday, "I have not received the chocolates."

Hans, who hails from Switzerland, bet his brother he could beat the 68-day record set by the fastest of the four previous "crossers" of the Atlantic via sailboat.

And he did. He made the solitary trip in a mere 58 days.

He proudly explains that his 33-foot boat, "Speranza" (Italian for "Hope"), is one-seventh of the Swiss Navy—and a very good ship she is, according to Hans.

When Hans landed the "Speranza" in New Haven, Conn., in September, he was greeted only by an immigration officer who demanded to see his "crew list."

"I have no crew list because I have no crew," was his response.

That, said Hans, didn't satisfy the official who thereupon fined him $10 for not having a crew list.

"That's America for you," said Hans, his hands gesturing incomprehension.

NOMAD AT HEART

Hans is a nomad at heart. He has visited more countries than he can remember, and he speaks nine languages. Heretofore he has avoided America, because he had thought it was "too civilized," but he has found it "not civilized at all."

The principal thing he has observed about the United States is that "it's run by the women . . . the men run around with their tongues hanging out, but the women run the country."

Hans has little interest in women. At 35, he says he is "a confirmed bachelor, rawther," and though he fearlessly sails the high seas alone, he admits "I'm not brave enough for marriage."

The Atlantic crossing was by no means his first sailing jaunt. He has had three sailing boats prior to the "Speranze," and has shipwrecked three times.

"Women Run America."

Shipwrecks have not tempered his love of the sea. Reciting poetry to the "seagulls and mermaids" at night gives one a feeling of peace beyond words, he claims.

While crossing the Atlantic, he slept "never longer than 45 minutes at a time." He made his navigation calculations three or four times a day, deducing them from "the sun, the horizon and myself."

JACK OF ALL TRADES

The Swiss "vagabond" is a jack of countless trades. He was a banker in Switzerland when he was overtaken by wanderlust in 1935. Since then, he has alternated or combined sailing with copper mining, ditch-digging, truck driving, photography, writing, block-printing and lecturing—in addition to his wartime stint in the Swiss army.

Right now, he is making a tour of the United States for the American Christian Palestine Committee and is delivering lectures on the Palestine problem. He has visited Palestine four times, and he categorically states, "The Jewish people are entitled to the country politically as well as morally." He insists Palestine "easily could absorbed 100,000 Jewish immigrants." He addressed Atanta Zionists on the subject Monday night.

In May, Hans de Meiss-Teuffen (he recommends use of his first name because of pronunciation difficulties of the last) again will go down to the sea. He will sail alone to South America, where he will take moving pictures for Pathe, and from there he will go to the Far East—and around the world.

It is "The Only Life," he asserts, with a far-away look in his eyes.

BOYS' TOWN THOUGHT LATORRE MILD

Dead End Star Says Parents, Not Movies, Warp Minds

By PAUL JONES

Ten years ago Don Latorre was known to the "underworld" as a tough young kid named "TB." He lived in one of the toughest neighborhoods in the country.

Since then he's visited reformatories in almost every State in the Union. He's talked to some of the hardest young criminals the "gutter" has produced and he considers himself an authority on child delinquency.

Don Latorre

Don is not a criminal. He's never been indicted by the Grand Jury. And he says he's never got a ticket for parking illegally. He became acquainted with the underworld and tough young kids when he made "Dead End," the poignant movie about delinquent children in New York. He got the name "TB" when he played that character in the movie.

Latorre was in Atlanta Saturday en route to London, where he expects to resume his movie career. While he was here he talked freely about child delinquency, the movies' influence on the younger generation and the parents' responsibility in combating this evil.

"I do not blame the movies for the warping of the child's mind," Don began. "When Mickey Rooney and I were making 'Boys' Town,' we visited Father Flannagan's famous retreat. We talked with the boys there and found that they knew movie criminals were 'phonies.' They took one look at us and said, 'You guys are not so tough.'

"The fault is with parents. They are delinquent. Instead of going their way and letting the child go his and wind up at 'Sloppy Joe's' drinking whiskey, the parents should entertain their children's friends at their home. They should make the child proud to say, 'That's my pop. He's a grand guy.'

"Instead, the parents today are prone to hide their drinking. They're selfish. If parents took more interest in their children's welfare, regulated their reading habits and lived more intimately with the youngsters, there would be no delinquency," he said.

Latorre ald cheap novels idolizing the big-time gangsters did more to influence children than all the movies.

BIG TOP DAYS

Ringling Circus Set For Travel

SARASOTA, Fla., April 1—(AP) The big Ringling Circus will leave Winter quarters here Wednesday for New York, where its official 1947 opening will take place April 19 at Madison Square Garden.

After about a month in New York the show will move on to the Boston Garden for several days and then open its outdoor season.

The performers, animals and equipment for the indoor show will travel in about 60 cars making up two special trains. The big tent and additional workers needed to set it up will follow in about a month.

Circus quarters here were closed to the public Sunday after a record-breaking season.

FORD'S NEW DE LUXE BUSINESS COUPE—This model, reinstated in the Ford line at a $20 cut in price, is now in production. Ford says it is the lowest price coupe in its field. Picture shows the new styling and body changes in this sleek Ford Model.

New Ford Business Coupe In Production; $20 Cheaper

The Ford Motor Company has reinstated in its line of cars the de luxe six-cylinder, three-passenger business coupe and has started to manufacture it in large volume at a $20 cut in price.

J. R. Davis, Vice President, said: "This price cut, together with reductions announced last Jan. 15 on other models, gives Ford the lowest-priced coupe and tudor sedan in its field. This is in keeping with Ford's traditional policy of providing more and better cars at the lowest possible cost to the buyer."

Ford's orders for cars and trucks during 1946 surpassed all records, continued Davis. He said retail orders in the hands of Ford dealers today exceed a million and a half, an increase of 62 percent over a year ago. Of this number, Davis estimates not more than 20 percent are duplications. In fact, Davis said, the Ford Motor Company sold more cars and trucks in 1946 than in any previous year since the Model A.

Production of 1947 Ford models now goes on at the rate of about 4,000 cars per day, Davis revealed, and this despite the fact that steel and some other materials are still scarce.

"A number of exterior and interior styling changes, including 10 new colors, are incorporated into today's Ford cars," said Davis. "These new Spring model cars will soon be on display throughout the country. Changes include the relocation of parking lights, a new medallion in place of the hood ornament, and heavier bumper guards, lowered fenders and a chrome-plated deck lid ornament."

Painters Granted Union Demands

More than half the 500 union painters in Atlanta were at work Tuesday, according to union officials who said only a few contractors had not signed contracts granting union demands for a $14 a day wage scale.

The painters affiliated with the AFL had asked for an increase by Monday midnight from $1.40 to $1.75 for journeymen painters and from $1.65 to $2 for foremen, while contractorr are understood to have offered a 17½-cent-across-the-board boost in pay.

Painters reporting for work Tuesday morning to contractors who had not granted union demands were not allowed to work, one union official reported.

Wheat Price Agreement Is Seen at Meet

LONDON, April 1—(AP)—Delegates to the International Wheat Conference said Tuesday they hoped to iron out all price differences at a plenary session and adopt an agreement for world distribution of wheat.

The big problem, one delegate said, involved price limits for wheat exports from the United States, Canada and Australia.

The minimum of $1.25 per bushel appeared to be generally accepted, one delegate said, but the ceiling price was still under debate, with importers defending the $1.55 level of the Anglo-Canadian contract, and United States and Australia fighting for a $1.70 ceiling.

ing local identification units in the country.

The County has the latest FBI filing and identification methods, along with modern ballistics and ultra violet ray equipment.

If the merger is acceptable, Ellis indicated the County would be forced to erect a separate building to house the Bureau since there is not sufficient space in the present County headquarters on the third floor of the courthouse. The site for such a building has not been selected.

Giving the City the responsibility of handling County police radio calls will not greatly alter the present system. County radio operators now broadcast calls to patrol cars through the Atlanta station, WPDY, which is being replaced with a more modern station.

Ellis will request the immediate installation of a telephone switchboard for the County force, with teletype connections with the City radio. County telephone operators then will send written instructions to the City station for broadcast to patrol cars.

The telephone board and teletype system can be installed in "less than three months," Ellis said.

Also at the Commission meeting, the County Chief is prepared to request immediate approval for his recommendations to eliminate angle parking on Peachtree Road and in Buckhead and for a re-zoning of Peachtree Road for a 35-mile speed limit under a progressive light system.

Figures compiled by Ellis will show the establishment of substations over Fulton County is providing county residents with 21 additional man days of police protection each 24 hours, along with a saving of at least five new automobiles each year and a gasoline bill of for than $10,000 annually.

The 14 cars on each patrol watch now change watches at stations in Buckhead, East Point and Center Hill instead of coming in to the County courthouse, Ellis explained. He estimated heretofore each car lost approximately one hour of patrol work reporting off duty and the replacement officers lost another hour getting back on outlying beats.

Each patrol car was losing around six hours daily, Ellis said, and traveling in the neighborhood of 96 unnecessary miles. He indicated eventually he would establish additional substations in other outlying sections, such as Fairburn and Roswell.

of certain wood partitions and doors, closing of certain openings and improvements to the coffee shop and the basement were recommended.

John F. Clegg, managing director of the West View Corporation, said he had no comment on the City's action and that "We're not trying to try this case in the newspapers." The Corporation, he said, is headed by Asa G. Candler, Jr., as president.

Andrew Smith, manager of the hotel, said a good deal of work has been done in the hotel to try to make it safer, and that new fire hose has been bought. He said the hotel is trying to comply with the laws and that it is taking time to digest the new City and State laws governing building safety codes.

The case against the hotel is set for 2:30 p. m. Thursday in Recorder's Court.

Harper said he is proceeding under Section 65-102 of City's Code which declares in part that "any building, structure, enclosure, place or premises is a nuisance, where it is perilous to life or property by reason of its construction . . . or of conditions in its construction likely to cause fire or the spreading of fire, or of conditions therein which would hamper or impede the Fire Department in combating a fire in or about the building . . ."

Section 65-116 of the City Code, covering penalties for continuing a nuisance, subjects violators to fines, imprisonment, or both, and declares such continuance constitutes a State offense.

Section 5-304 of the City Code, Harper said, gives the Mayor and Council power to revoke licenses issued to hotels.

Building Inspector Harper warned Tuesday that court action will be instituted against other property owners who are making no effort to institute measures recommended for the safety of their buildings.

the rent hike, taken in a closed-door session, was 9 to 4.

The Committee rejected a proposal by Rep. Monroney, Democrat, Oklahoma, that instead of a flat increase it acept the rent formula approved by the Senate Banking Committee Monday, which would set up local advisory groups to recommend specific rent adjustments.

Much broader than the Senate measure the House bill would:

1. Abolish provisions in the Veterans (Patman) Housing Act for allocation of building materials and for restrictions on commercial construction; abolish the office of Housing Expediter and give the President authority to place its remaining functions in another agency.

2. Retain veterans' preferences for rental or purchase of new houses or apartments, and also keep the Government program for insuring mortgages up to 90 per cent of value of new homes.

3. While allowing a 10 percent increase in rentals on existing houses, the bill would abolish all rent ceilings on new dwellings. It also would remove ceilings on rentals of tourist hotels and tourist courts.

The rent controls on existing structures would continue to March 31, 1948, the Committee rejecting a proposal that they be dropped October 31 this year.

Wolcott, author of the House bill, told reporters that by freeing the construction industry of controls "we will get more homes quicker." He said most controls have already been dropped by the administration.

Rep. Patman, Democrat, Texas, author of the Veterans Housing Act, said the new bill would leave home-seeking veterans "at the mercy of those who are trying to get the greatest profit out of construction." He said the bill would let building materials, needed for homes, "go into the construction of race tracks and road houses."

The Senate bill would set up advisory committees of representative citizens in each rental area. They could recommend rent increases or removal of ceilings in an area, and their recommendations would go into effect after 30 days unless overruled by the housing office in Washington.

The Senate bill would continue controls through next Feb. 29, while the House measure stipulates March 31. The Senate bill also provides for rent decontrol of new housing, newly rented dwellings, houses rented for more than $225 a month and hotels and motor courts.

sey. The Democrats charged the measure was "loosely drawn."

As the administration stepped up its effort to avert the strike, Schwellenbach conferred for an hour with C. F. Craig, Vice President of the AT&T. It was the first time that a top company official has participated in the Government-sponsored talks.

Last year, Craig personally negotiated a contract between the NFTW and the AT&T a bare 25 minutes before a strike deadline.

Hartley declined to discuss the dispute within the House Committee, but Democratic members said the Republicans "fell to pieces" in the postponement vote. They said several GOP members supported their move.

Rep. Lesinski, Democrat, Michigan, ranking Democrat on the Committee, called a meeting of his party's members to formulate their strategy on the bill. Lesinski said later he "had no doubt" that the bill would be reported out tomorrow and that he was going to write a minority report.

The bill was attacked as "downright dangerous" by Rep. Powell, Democrat, New York, who said it was intended to embarrass Mr. Truman and to 'cheapen the legislative and judicial branches."

State revenue collections during March dropped $525,492 as compared with March, 1946.

State Revenue Commissioner Glenn Phillips announced Tuesday that March collections totaled $8,479,692, as compared with $9,005,184 for the preceding March.

Observing that some speakers erroneously had estimated the State income would hit $100,000,000 this year on a basis of the increase in January and February, Thrasher expressed fear that the State's income has hit a peak and is leveling off.

as a result of the bad weather conditions which prevailed most of the Winter, and shortages of critical building materials.

One building official advanced the opinion financing for new construction is becoming more stringent and added some builders are awaiting a drop in prices before starting work.

A study of figures for the entire area revealed the slump first became apparent in February and continued throughout March except in Fulton County, where building staged a recovery after dropping off in January, and in DeKalb County and Hapeville, where steady gains were registered.

A complete breakdown of figures shows Atlanta almost $3,000,000 below last year, with 1,288 permits for building valued at $4,878,886 issued in 1947, compared with 1,635 permits representing investments of $7,846,354 for the same period last year.

It was pointed out the number of permits issued in 1946 was abnormally high due to a rush by builders to get foundations started before a ban on industrial construction became effective.

Fulton County issued 553 permits for building costing $2,617,108 this year, compared to 807 permits for investments totaling $3,346,565 in 1946.

Decatur registered a drop from 72 permits for $462,000 in new building during 1946 to 33 permits for construction valued at $134,000 in the first quarter of 1947. College Park also suffered a severe decline with 23 permits representing $90,000 this year, as compared with 44 permits totaling $165,000 in 1946.

East Point recorded a decline from 97 permits for building valued at $462,000 in the first three months of 1946, to 69 permits representing $350,000 in investments for the same period this year.

FEELING FINE AGAIN, EDUCATOR GIVES FULL CREDIT TO RETONGA

W. A. WATKINS

Acid Indigestion And Sluggish Elimination Gave Him Little Rest For Years, He States, And Every Muscle Felt Achy And Sore At Times. "Everyone Ought to Know About Retonga."

Few people in Richmond County, Georgia, are better known than Mr. W. A. Watkins, for thirty years a member of the County Board of Education. Mr. Watkins' home is at Gracewood, Ga., near Augusta, and although retired from the Board of Education he is still active in the Richmond County Training School. Mr. Watkins is among the thousands of well-known Georgia men and women praising Retonga for the relief it brought in their own cases. Speaking of his happy experience with this noted medicine he declared:

"I feel better and stronger than in many years and I give Retonga full credit for it. Acid indigestion and sluggish elimination kept me feeling miserable for several years. My appetite held up pretty well but so much gas formed in my stomach I often felt as if it would cut off my breath. Many nights I had to sit up for hours until I could get relief. I felt high-strung and on edge constantly. Sluggish elimination seemed to keep me full of toxic poisons and often it seemed to me that every muscle and joint in my body was achy, painful and sore.

"Finally I determined to try Retonga and the relief it gave me is little short of astonishing. I eat anything, and my food digests so well I have regained ten pounds. The discomfort of gas and bloating just seemed to slip away. Sluggish elimination and the pains and aches in my muscles and joints are also relieved, and it is a joy to sleep as well as I do now. I feel like a different person. Everyone suffering as I did ought to know about Retonga."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 and is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at

SALLY FORTH Says:

JoAnn Gentry Will Marry Morgan Lewis McNeel, III

The engagement of JoAnn Gentry, which is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Gentry, to Morgan Lewis McNeel, III, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan L. McNeel, Jr., of Marietta, is of social interest throughout the South. This prominent young couple, whose romance began on their first date last Fall in Athens, where both attend the University of Georgia, will marry on Saturday evening at the Cathedral of St. Philip.

JOANN GENTRY

When JoAnn becomes the bride of "Mickey," as the groom-elect is affectionately known to his many friends, she will wear the exquisite wedding dress belonging to Mickey's maternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Henry E. Lowe, of Chicago. The gown, of handsome handmade lace, was bought in Paris by Mrs. Lowe and is featured by a wide ivory satin sash finished with tiny satin tassels. Posed over ivory satin, the gown is a perfect fit for JoAnn, who, by strange coincidence, is the same height and size as the late Mrs. Lowe.

Another sentimental feature of her bridal attire is the beautiful Brussels lace veil she will wear which belongs to Mickey's great-aunt, Mrs. Fred Hodgson, of Athens, and was first worn by her when as Gretchen Fasset, of Elmira, N. Y., she became a bride. It was also worn by Mickey's mother, the former Hazel Hodgson, when she married, as well as by such other prominent brides as Nell Hodgson (Mrs. Robert) Woodruff, Dorothy Hodgson (Mrs. Bolling) Jones, Jennie Hodgson (Mrs. Edward) Van Winkle, and Martha Hodgson (Mrs. Rutherford) Ellis.

The wedding, which will be a quiet event, takes place at 8 p. m., with Dean Raimundo de Ovies officiating in the presence of a limited group of friends. JoAnn will be given in marriage by her father, and her only sister, Mary Jane, will be her maid of honor and only attendant. Harry Hodgson McNeel will be Mickey's best man. Serving as ushers will be Lucien Harris, Jr., Frank Rowsey, William W. Brooks, W. J. Cordes and Louie P. Lathem, Sr. Organ music will be presented by Tom Brumby and Beverly Wolff will sing.

JoAnn is a petite and beautiful blonde, with clear blue eyes and a slender and attractive figure. A younger daughter of her parents, she was graduated from Virginia Intermont College and is now attending the University of Georgia. She belongs to the Phi Beta Phi sorority.

A representative of well-known families, she is a granddaughter, on her maternal side, of Mrs. Eva Scharding, of San Francisco, Cal., and the late Harry Bray Behenna, of England. Her mother is the former Bernice Behenna. On her paternal side, she is a granddaughter of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson Gentry and the late Mr. Gentry, of Orange County, Virginia.

"Mickey" served with honor and distinction overseas with the Army Air Corps during World War II as a member of the Eighth Air Force and was a turret gunner on a B-17 in the European invasion. He holds the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters and the Presidential Unit Citation. He is also at the University of Georgia and is a member of the SAE fraternity and resides with his grandfather, Harry Hodgson, on Milledge Avenue.

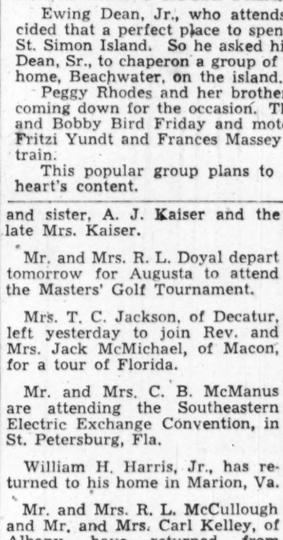

Like his bride-elect, Mickey is a representative of prominent and distinguished Georgia families. His mother is the former Hazel Hodgson, daughter of Harry Hodgson and the late Mrs. Hodgson, of Athens. His paternal grandparents are Mrs. Morgan L. McNeel, Sr., and the late Mr. McNeel, of Marietta. Harry McNeel is his only brother, and his sister is Dorothy McNeel.

EWING DEAN'S HOUSE PARTY

Ewing Dean, Jr., who attends Sewanee Military Academy, decided that a perfect place to spend his Spring vacation would be at St. Simon Island. So he asked his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ewing Dean, Sr., to chaperon a group of his friends for a week at the Dean home, Beachwater, on the island.

Peggy Rhodes and her brother, Bruce, of Philadelphia, Pa., are coming down for the occasion. They will join Ewing, Frank Mason and Bobby Bird Friday and motor down. Mary Anne Braungart, Fritzi Yundt and Frances Massey are leaving tomorrow evening by train.

This popular group plans to swim and fish and crab to their heart's content.

MRS. JOHN W. WILLIAMSON

Mrs. Williamson is the former Miss Betty Ruth Holcombe, whose marriage to Mr. Williamson, son of Mrs. Grover Buchannan, of Jacksonville, and the late J. W. Williamson, took place recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Holcombe, in East Point. The bride's grandfather, Rev. J. A. Smith, of Summerville, officiated. Miss Elizabeth Mathis, of Buford, was the bride's only attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson are both employed by the Southern Railway and reside in Atlanta.

Flabby Upper Arms Give Your Age Away

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Why the upper arms get flabby and run to fat as time goes by, puzzles the average active woman who uses her arms day in and day out in hundreds of movements. One overweight, with a good sense of humor, figures they are the muscles used to push from the table, and perhaps that is why they lack tone. But the truth is, the triceps take life very easy. They represent a dead area, muscularly speaking. It's simply that they are not used in everyday movements.

To find which movements bring these muscles into action we have to look to kinesology, the science of muscular movement. Kinesology reveals that loss of the triceps destroys our ability to extend the elbow forcibly against resistance. In other words, if the triceps went out of commission, we couldn't strike a forceful blow. So there is the clue to exercise . . . to put force behind a blow. Kinesology also shows that the action should be straight from the shoulder, since the upper arm must be more horizontal than perpendicular to bring the triceps into vigorous action.

Before we swing into position, however, check up on the way you hold your arm. One authority on musculature claims that an easy way to help overcome flabbiness in this area is always to carry the arms with the inside of the elbows—the soft part at the bend of the elbow—toward the body. Try that and you'll see it does direct the pull through the triceps on backs of upper arms.

However, for muscles padded with fat and definitely in need of toning, push as well as pull is necessary to take up the slack. Perhaps it seems silly to have to make up special exercises to tone the upper arm muscles, but they are a dead giveaway for age, and a sorry sight in sleeveless dresses.

Here are two resistance exercises:

Position: Standing facing the wall, arms distance away, shoulder level with palms of hands against the wall, elbows straight.

Movement: Resisting with arm muscles, bend forward until chest touches wall, keeping back straight. Then resisting with the back, pushing with arms, push out from wall until elbows are straight. Repeat six times. If you think that is a sissy exercise, try it pushing up from floor, keeping back straight.

For fun and exercise, do the sofa pillow punch. Suspend an old pillow in a doorway, at the height where you can punch out at shoulder level . . . then punch!

Also, practice holding your arms with the inside bend of the elbow toward the body. It will take a while to get used to the muscular pull involved in holding them in this correct position before it becomes beautiful habit.

For the Spring bride who does not choose the formality of a white wedding gown and veil, this suit of the softest pink is suggested. Using a Fortsmann's sheer wool in a delicate shade of rosy pink, Nathalie Nicoli, designer, makes a short flaring jacket and a slim suit. The jacket she cuts with a sweetheart neckline, outlining the neckline and jacket front with embroidery of crystal bugle beads and soutache braid. A series of darts fits the jacket closely to the waistline, releasing fullnes to flare softly about the hips. The straight skirt has a V nick at the front skirt hem. A love of a hat is shown with this bridal suit. Giving the impression of a summer cloud, it is straw, flowers, ribbon and veil, a shade of beigy-gray. The silk roses massed to one side in front are caught in a cloud of misty veiling. Picking up the crystal motif of the suit's embroidery, we accessorized this costume with a twisted choker of crystal beads and matching earrings. Suit and accessories are available locally.

PARSONS REPORTS

Movie Ready For Gable After Rest

BALTIMORE, April 1—Rumors that Clark Gable might retire after The Hucksters are just plain popcorn. His next at M-G-M is all picked out and it's "The Home-coming of Ulysses," the story of a doctor whose creed is all science until he becomes humanized through his work in the war.

But, first Clark gets a vacation. Fact is, he sneaked out of Hollywood last Monday headed for Canada and a hunting trip.

Via that telegraphic way things circulate in Hollywood, the word is out that "The Hucksters" is terrific and King Gable is back in that rare form that won him his crown.

A lot of people think Rocky Graziano got a rough deal plus when he was ruled out by the New York Boxing Commission for failing to report a bribe he didn't take. Well, Rocky's defenders will be interested to learn that Agents Danny Winkler and Jack Beekman have taken on Graziano as a movie prospect.

I also got it straight that Graziano plans to fight in California. If he makes a good showing in the ring and lands a good movie, there's no reason why he can't hit the comeback trail.

I don't know when a life story has impressed so many people as the news that the Mike Romanoff fabulous tale is to be filmed.

Eddie Mannix, Benny Thau with His Imperial Highness are in Phoenix consulting with Paul Gallico, who is writing the story.

Bill Powell knows Mike and he will give the character that Oxfordian accent for which Romanoff is famous.

CHATTER IN NEW YORK: Venita Varden, exwife of Jack Oakie, telephoned me. She has been consulting an attorney with the idea of suing Russell Birdwell, for whom she works.

She was a little vague about why she was suing Russell, but I gather it was because she believes he owes her some money. She worked for him for six months.

Now she has gone to South America where she says she has a big business proposition.

"Recently, I was very sick," she told me, "and I tried to talk to Jack over the long distance telephone. Vickie Horn answered his telephone and didn't let me talk to him. I bet he doesn't even know I called."

SNAPSHOTS OF NEW YORK AND HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mrs. Bert Lahr had an emergency operation, but Bert tells me she is now out of danger.

Veronica Lake is in the Big Town to do a radio show and Dorothy Lamour will be here within 10 days.

Almost any night at the Stork Club, George Jean Nathan and Julie Hayden can be seen, Julie with not a speck of make-up. Not many women would be that brave.

The William Hearst Jrs. celebrated their fourteenth wedding anniversary a few nights ago and in the party of six was Sylvia Fairbanks with Robert Sweeney, who is her No. 1 admirer.

Gladys Swarthout, who had a serious operation on her knee, is coming along nicely and I talked with her husband, Frank Chapman, who says the reports that she has to have another operation are untrue.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

AREN'T WE ALL?

Is grapefruit juice good for people who are alkaline?

(Mrs. R. M. W.)

Answer—It is good for any one who likes it. We're all more or less alkaline.

THE WORRY AUNT

My aunt believes it is dangerous for a girl to wash her hair (1) at or near menstrual period or (2) when she has the least sign of a slight "cold." She is now indulging in remorse because she permitted her eighteen-year-old daughter to take a shampoo one day when the apartment was without heat, in consequence of which, as she insists, the girl developed pneumonia. (H. J.)

Answer—The whole thing is too absurd to discuss seriously. I'm sorry for the girl or woman who permits such superstition to rule her life. I'm sorrier for your aunt who seems to get a kind of pleasure from conjuring up imaginary evils.

PARALYSIS NOT COMMUNICABLE

In this home there is a four-year-old child that has infantile paralysis since infancy. Is there any danger of catching it by breathing the air in the home or drinking water from the cups used at table? (Mrs. H. S.)

Answer—Paralysis of any kind is never communicable. The virus, infection or germ of poliomyelitis is communicable only during the first week or two of the illness, while the patient has some fever. After the feverish illness is gone, and only paralysis, paresis (weakness) or in mild cases, just fatigue or dull ache remains, there is no longer any possibility of spread of the disease.

REMOVAL OF HAIR

Has the removal of unwanted hair on the skin any ill effect on the person's health? (L. J.)

Answer—No. Chapter on superfluous hair in booklet "Hair and Scalp"—for copy send 10 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

CALCIUM AND RHEUMATIZ

Does hard water containing much calcium cause or predispose to rheumatism if used constantly as drinking water and for cooking? (Mrs. E. H. W.)

Answer—No. As long as the water is satisfactory in taste, it makes no difference how much calcium it contains. Calcium is rather good for rheumatism. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for phamphlet "Calcium and Rheumatiz."

City Council Seeks $207,000 To Finance New Salary Hikes

Efforts to provide $207,000 to finance salary hikes for municipal workers and officials for the remainder of the year will feature a special meeting of City Council's Finance Committee at 3 p. m. today at the City Hall.

Ald. Ed A. Gilliam, Committee Chairman, called the session in an attempt to provide funds needed to establish a six-day work week for the Atlanta Fire Department. The six-day week was promised to avoid passage of a Legislative order to place firemen on an eight-hour work day, officials said. Funds for salary hikes for 25 officials, ordered by the 1947 session of the Legislature, also will be studied.

Another problem facing the Finance Committee will be a request from the Atlanta Board of Firemasters for personnel to provide fire protection at the Municipal airport. Jack Gray, Airport Manager, told fire board members physical properties valued at $2,350,000, and passengers and crews in 347,000 landings and take offs a year were without adequate protection from fire since the Army Air Forces practically have abandoned the field.

Gray said the Army promised the City equipment for fighting plane fires, but personnel to direct employes of private air lines must be furnished by the municipality.

Several proposals have been advanced for raising money to finance the salary raises. One was a 50 percent increase be voted for existing sales taxes on liquor, beer and wine to provide approximately $360,000 annually; another would levy a one percent amusement tax to raise approximately $450,000 a year; a third would help provide the needed funds by abolishing a two percent discount now allowed for prompt payment of City taxes. The latter proposal would raise half the needed sum for this year.

Gilliam estimated the new raises will cost $250,000 for a full year.

Several members of the Finance Committee will oppose reported efforts to find the money for this year by diverting from the existing finance sheet funds earmarked for public improvements and the purchase of City equipment.

Auto-Soler Offers 25,000 Shares

In order to finance a world-wide expansion in its sales, the Auto-Soler Company of Atlanta, manufacturer of automatic nailing machines, is offering for public subscriptions 25,000 shares of its common stock at $15 per share. This stock offer is limited to residents of Georgia only.

This is a new stock issue and will increase Auto-Soler's outstanding stock to 156,000 shares, the only capital obligation of the Company. Of the new funds to be raised by this stock issue, $300,000 will go to increase operating capital and $75,000 for additional factory expansion.

"Total business last year exceeded $1,000,000," William H. Wilkerson, President, said in his letter to stockholders. "At this rate of growth, this new capital will enable us to increase our business in 1947 to $1,250,000. This will mean net earnings of $1.50 per share of the total 156,000 shares to be outstanding after this new issue."

New Activities By Commerce Department

"Large scale expansion" of U. S. Department of Commerce activities in a program designed to aid economic development in the Southeast has been announced by C. Parker Persons, Regional Director.

A new "Area Development Program," through which the office will assemble basic information on resources, industries and markets for use by State, regional and community organizations, has been set up under the direction of Dr. L. Vaughn Howard, former Executive Director of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board of Georgia.

The Department's Office of International Trade also has been expanded with the addition of Howard L. Smith, new Director, and Miss Mary S. Merrill and Mrs. Gertrude York. Persons said there is an increasing interest, especially on the part of veterans, in the import and export business.

The Office of Technical Services, headed by Heywood C. Hosch, and the Office of Small Business, headed by Sam DuBose, also are expanding their activities.

Last Rush for Tags May Delay Mailing

Many Georgians will not receive their new automobile tags until the middle of this month, because of the last minute rush of mail applications, Director J. A. Latimer, of the Motor Vehicle Tax Unit, said Tuesday.

Latimer said his division of the State Revenue Department has about 100,000 mail applications. He urged State law enforcement officers to be lenient with motorists who have not received their tags until the Department announces the orders have been filled.

Long lines of applicants crowded the Capitol Tuesday to beat the midnight deadline.

Earl Sings the Blues, Accompanied by Butts

Mr. Earl Mann was fretting and fuming in his office at Ponce de Leon Park. He walked to the window and glared at the gray skies above. He sat down and put in a long distance call to Ki Ki Cuyler in Charleston.

"Hour's delay," he grumbled. "What's the matter with these telephone people? Don't they know Trippi's leg is hurt? I don't like the looks of this weather. Think I'll call up Wally Butts and see what he thinks about it. He's an old hand at forecasting the weather."

Mann then placed a call to Athens and, surprisingly, obtained the Georgia football coach without delay.

"Hello, Wally. This is Earl Mann. What about the weather for the rest of the week?"

"Rain," replied Butts. "No doubt about it. We're supposed to play a G-Day football game on the 11th and weather's been so bad I don't have a boy in shape to go morne'n 10 minutes. It's bound to rain 'cause any time ol' Butts plans something, it rains and . . ."

"Don't know what you're griping about," said Mann. "We open the season with Birmingham on the 11th. I've never seen such a Spring. Rain all the time and Cincinnati, New York and Detroit are coming in for exhibitions, starting Thursday. And, besides, Trippi's hurt and . . ."

"Trippi . . . Trippi," Butts moaned. "Don't mention that name to me. Even with one leg, he's better than anything I got around here now. No sir, you don't get any sympathy from me. Injured or not, you got him and I ain't. I don't see why he had to use up all his eligibility, 'cause I could sure use him this year."

Mann weakly replaced the phone on the hook.

"No good talking to him," he muttered. "He'll have me feeling worse than I do now. Wish that team would get back to Atlanta. I've got to get a couple of specialists to look at Trippi's leg."

The telephone rang. It was the Charleston call. Mann grabbed it eagerly.

"Hello, Ki. How's Trippi's leg. What? Same as this morning? What's the matter over there? Ain't you doing anything for it? Better call in a couple of doctors and let 'em look at it. Can't tell about those things. May be serious. Well, okay, call me and let me know what they say."

He hung up the phone and again walked to the window and looked at the skies.

"Getting worse," he said. "Well, maybe it will rain itself out before Thursday, at least before Sunday. The Yankees will be here then. We had more than 21,000 last year. Hope we do that well again."

With that, he put on his hat and walked absent-mindedly from the park.

Trippi Reveals He's Human It is ironical that Charley Trippi could play six years of football and never miss a minute because of injuries and then pull a muscle after three weeks of his first venture in professional baseball.

In Georgia's tough games last season he averaged some 55 minutes playing time in each. His playing was not the ordinary type competition for a back. The fact that he was an All-American and the sparkplug of the team made the opposition hit him just a little bit harder than usual. And his defensive ability put him in on just about every tackle made in the backfield.

However, there were Sunday mornings when he didn't feel much like taking a long walk in the sun or even a short walk to the breakfast table, for that matter.

We asked him about it on our way to Gainesville early in March.

"Well," he replied, "I never missed a game because of injuries but there were times when I thought every bone in my body was broken.

"The hardest licking I ever took in my life was during the LSU game in 1945, my first after getting out of the service. They hit me with everything they had and on Sunday morning I could not even walk.

"That is not an exaggeration," he continued. "I tried it but couldn't and stayed in bed all day. I felt a little better Monday morning but was still so sore I had to walk stiff-legged. There was nothing dirty or illegal about the way they hit me. It was just slam-bang, hard football. But I'll never forget it."

The Cincinnati Reds come into town for games Thursday and Friday. They will be followed by the Yankees on Saturday and Sunday and by Detroit on the next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Fellow Ex-Texans Menace Nelson's Comeback Effort

By CHICK HOSCH

AUGUSTA, April 1—(AP)—Byron Nelson, who won the Masters' Golf Tournament here twice in past years, comes out of retirement Thursday for the 11th annual event to find two other ex-Texans established as the favorites—Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret.

Nelson, winner of over $100,000 in the 1944-1945 span, stepped aside early last Fall after a combination of ailments, particularly a bad back, ruined his effectiveness. He won 19 tournaments in 1945, and started last year with victories at Los Angeles and San Francisco, but began to slip shortly after.

He rallied to win the New Orleans Open and showed intermittent brilliance after that, but never regained his old form. He won at Houston in May, and at Columbus, Ohio, in early July, and his last event—the Chicago Victory Invitational—two weeks later.

Hogan, twice the runner-up here—last year and in a 1942 playoff with Nelson—has been here two weeks getting in some long practice sessions. Demaret, the 1940 king of the fairways and the Masters' winner that year, apparently is back at the peak of his game. He and Hogan have won the lion's share of the honors in recent months.

Sharing a sort of "darkhorse" role with Nelson is Bobby Locke, the South African champion.

Entered among the 90-odd players invited are four of last year's top titleholders—Hogan, the PGA champion; Lloyd Mangrum, the U. S. Open victory in a double playoff; Ted Bishop, the amateur king, and Smiley Quick, the Public Links champion.

As usual, play will be medal with 18 holes daily ending Sunday.

Peaches Top Bulldogs, 11-7, In Exhibition

ATHENS, April 1—Macon's Sally League Peaches scored six runs in the first and went on to defeat the Georgia Bulldogs in an exhibition game this afternoon, 11 to 7.

Bob Still, Georgia frosh right-hander, was the victim of the Peaches early outburst, but remained in the game until the fourth. When Lamar Murphy's three-run homer ran the score to a 10-4 margin, Lefty Dick Miles relieved Still and turned in another brilliant relief job, giving up only two hits in the rest of the game.

Roy Marion, Macon second sacker, had three for six to lead the Peaches.

The teams meet tomorrow afternoon in Macon.

Vols May Sign Charlie Brewster

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—There was an outside chance that the Nashville Vols would take back Shortstop Charlie Brewster, who was released by the Birmingham Barons today.

Manager Larry Gilbert said Brewster had called him by phone and wanted to return to the Vols, where the 30-year-old infielder hit .361 in his last year with the Dellers, 1945. The Barons got him for $3,500 from Milwaukee.

"I don't know what I'll do about Brewster," confessed Gilbert, who said he was weighing his superior fielding and batting ability against a "terrible disposition."

Rigney pitched five innings and allowed six hits. The Giants picked up three more off Harrist.

Charleston Raps Crackers, 6-4

By F. M. WILLIAMS,
Constitution Sports Writer.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 1—The Crackers ran into some airtight, though slightly wild, pitching tonight and the Charleston Rebels won a 6-4 decision over the Southern League champions before about 3,000 spectators.

Held to only five hits, two of them by Charley Trippi who played the entire game in spite of a bad leg, the Crackers scored all their runs in the second and ninth innings on wildness of Andy Elko and Jack Lark.

George Diehl, who started for the Crackers, gave up three runs in the third inning after two were out and was the losing hurler.

Forrest Thompson hurled the middle three frames and turned in a one-hit performance. Shelby Kinney finished and was the victim of some erratic fielding in the eighth, when the Rebels scored the two runs that were the margin of victory.

Wildness got Andy Elko, Rebel pitcher, in a peck of trouble in the second and the Crackers scored when Diehl flied to deep right center.

Charleston got one tally back in the bottom half of the second when Petrino led off with a double to right and moved on around the base paths on long flies to Trippi by Roberts and Ogerek.

Trippi led off the Cracker half of the third with a triple and Verble was hit by a pitched ball, but the Rebels got out of the hole when Trippi was caught in a chase on an attempted double steal, and the Crackers failed to score.

Diehl got the first two batters facing him in the Charleston half of the third but then, in rapid succession, Scruggs doubled, Livingston singled, Logan tripled and Petrino doubled to drive in three runners. Charleston led 4-2.

The Rebels broke a series of scoreless innings with a two run spurt in the eighth. Logan beat out an infield hit but was forced at second by Petrino. Cieslak dropped Adkins' fly to right and then Kinney walked Ogorek to load the bases. Hankins singled to left and Petrino and Adkins came home.

The Crackers got two in the ninth without a hit. Ulisney was safe on Adkins' error and then Lark walked Trippi, Verable and Cieslak, forcing in one run. Kimmet came to the mound and forced Ellis to fly to center, Trippi scoring after the catch, and Glock to pop to short. In the last four innings, eight Atlanta runners were left on the bases.

Wednesday morning the Club entrains for Atlanta and Thursday afternoon will clash with the Cincinnati Reds in the year's first appearance at Ponce de Leon Park.

Peggy Kirk Plays Candler Park; Likes Demaret, Hogan in Masters'

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

It will be Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret against the field in the Masters' Tournament in Augusta this week, if you take the word of Peggy Kirk, one of the nation's more able feminine golfers.

Miss Kirk, who bested both Louise Suggs and Dorothy Kirby in Miami's Helen Dougherty Tournament recently, visited Atlanta Tuesday and made her observation between shots at the Candler Park course.

The Findlay, Ohio, swinger banged her tee shot 225 yards down the middle on the No. 6 fairway and said: "Yes, that's the way the golfers are betting down in Augusta. Demaret is shooting almost perfect golf these days, and Hogan, while a little off in spots, is continually coming through with the shot that counts.

"Most of the golfers practicing down there now think Jimmy or Ben will come through with top money in this tournament."

She took time out to pitch eight feet beyond the pin with a seven iron, and then continued in her pleasing Yankee brogue: "You know, that Babe Zaharias is just too good for the rest of us girls. Everyone is talking about her terrific drives, and boy, she really can hit them, but she can get that ball in the cup better than the rest of us, too. She is wonderful with that putter.

"If it weren't for the Babe, I believe Louise Suggs and Kirby would be winning most of the tournaments. They are the next best, I think, but you just can't beat the kind of golf Didrickson is turning in."

Tugging at her Helen Wills Moody sun visor, she lined up her eight-foot putt, tapped it and watched the ball hang on the lip of the cup as she just missed a birdie three. Then she resumed: "I just came in from Augusta, where I was playing in the Title-holders. I was to meet my Dad here, but his train from Miami was several hours late. I told the taxi driver to rush me to the nearest golf course and this is where he brought me. I wanted to call Dot Kirby so she and I could get in a round at Capital City, but didn't know where to call her. We're going to play the Western Open at Capital City soon, you know, and I wanted to get in some practice licks there. That's the big tournament of the year as far as we girls are concerned."

"How are your scoring today?" someone asked.

"I'm not telling," parried Peggy. "I picked up on No. three. (Pete Cole, Candler Park pro, calls that the toughest par three hole in town) after chipping into trouble twice."

Bagby May Be Starter

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 1—(AP)—Big Hank Greenberg is the key man in the Pittsburgh camp, where Freshman Manager Billy Herman is fashioning a home run-minded ball club from a squad of "interim" players.

"If Hank can play every day," Herman observed, "I know we'll be all right. Right now, I think we are all right and I'll be very much disappointed if we finish in the second division."

Greenberg has been out of the lineup for 10 days due to an elbow ailment and did not leave today with the rest of the club for a short swing through the West Coast training camps. However, Hank insists he could play if necessary and will be ready for every-day duty when the season opens.

Herman has been happily surprised by his pitching staff which he had been led to believe was strictly seventh place. No final decision will be made until mid-May but a good guess on the regular starters would include Ed Bahr, Preacher Roe, Rip Sewell, Ernie Bonham, Jim Bagby, Nick Strincevich and Kenny Gables.

Fred Ostermueller has looked very good as has Hugh Mulcahy, picked up as a free agent after his release by the Phillies.

Gainesville Nine Beats West Fulton, 5 to 2

Gainesville's Red Elephants jumped into the favorite's role along with Decatur in the NGIC baseball race yesterday when they defeated the defending champion West Fulton nine, 5-2, in Gainesville. The winners had won their first league start last Friday against Fulton, 7-6.

Decatur rapped College Park, 9-5, to tie Gainesville for the league lead.

Pruitt got the first of the four Gainesville hits to lead it off.

NGIC STANDINGS

| TEAM | W. | L. | TEAM | W. | L. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gainesville | 2 | 0 | College Park | 1 | 1 |
| Decatur | 2 | 0 | Marietta | 1 | 1 |
| West Fulton | 1 | 1 | Commercial | 0 | 2 |
| Fulton | 1 | 1 | Canton | 0 | 2 |

Harris sacrificed him to second and when the throw to first was wild, Pruitt advanced to third and Harris to second. Cooper walked and on the fourth ball Pruitt stole home and Harris third. Cooper then stole second and Harris came home and Cooper went to third when Pitcher Walter Butler, of the Owls, balked. Cooper then came home when Byrd grounded out.

Gainesville tallied one in the sixth when Cooper walked with one out, stole second and came home on Byrd's triple. They scored their final run in the seventh when Henson singled, went to second when the second baseman failed to touch the bag on an attempted force play on Hulsey's grounder, and scored on Pruitt's single.

West Fulton scored in the first when Conn led off with a double and came in on successive sacrifices by Smith and Crawford and tallied their final run in the 8th when Smith walked, advanced on Crawford's single and scored when Richardson grounded out.

In the Decatur victory, Moose Miller sparked the Bulldogs over the Rams with a single and a two-run homer in the fourth. The Rams tallied three times in the first but Decatur came back with six in the second and three more in the fourth. Sims settled down after the first and limited College Park to three hits and two runs the rest of the way. Kilgore, with two doubles, and Newsome, with a triple, sparked the Ram attack.

Decatur's tilt with West Fulton at Decatur, scheduled for April 8, has been changed to April 22, it was announced yesterday. Also the Decatur game with Marietta at Marietta April 18 has been moved to the 17th and the Marietta tilt scheduled May 16 at Decatur has been moved up to May 15.

Fulton's nine rebounded from their opening defeat at the hands of Gainesville to rap Commercial, 8-3, in a game marred by 17 errors, 12 by Commercial.

The Typists outhit the winners, 8 to 6, but could do nothing right in the field, Fulton tallying their first two runs without a hit. Commercial pitchers Corley and Duvall struck out 11 men.

Marietta's nine jumped into the win column with a 5-3 victory over Canton at Marietta. The winners lost their opener to West Fulton last week, 2-1.

Relief Pitcher Collier Keathley saved the game for Marietta when he went to the mound in the fifth with two on base and held the Greenies hitless the rest of the way. Marietta collected six bingles while Canton could garner only three.

Minors Pledge Aid to Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 1.—(AP)—George M. Trautman, President of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said today the minors had pledged themselves to a program to aid in the curbing of juvenile delinquency.

In a letter to the club and 52 league presidents, Trautman urged the "establishment of knot hole gangs, supervision and promotion of sandlot baseball, and furnishing the youngsters of the various communities with whatever aid baseball can render in this deserving program."

The prexy of the minors cited a program in Dallas, Texas, where police cruisers carry "auxiliary equipment" of baseballs and bats. If the police see a crowd of boys apparently in want of something to do, they single out one of the youths, give him a bat and a couple of baseballs, take his name and tell him they'll pick up the equipment later.

In every instance, Trautman said, the equipment—a bit the worse for wear and tear—has been returned.

NEW YORK, April 1—(AP)—The stock market today started the new month with a selective recovery shift led by aviations, motors and steels. Many pivotals, though, continued to stumble.

Professional short covering and bidding was credited partly to the idea a technical comeback was in the cards after three successive losing sessions. Another pleasing batch of earnings and dividends was helpful. Numerous brokerage clients still held aloof or trimmed accounts because of doubts regarding business, taxes and the international situation. The coal mine holiday and a threatened telephone strike provided a restraining influence.

Dealings quickened at intervals after the opening with a fair-sized flurry in the final hour when favorites pushed up fractions to 3 points. Slowdowns were frequent and top gains reduced in most cases at the close.

Light offerings of low and medium priced rails depressed carrier obligations in the bond market today. Other sections of the list remained quiet. Near the start of the final hour declines ranged to a little more than a point. Announcement at Washington that the Senate Banking Committee would undertake a general investigation of all Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, including one of $80,000,000 to Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, was followed by declines of major fractions to more than a point in several loans of that railroad.

Improved in the curb were Middle West Corporation, Cities Service and American Cyanamid. Lower were Aluminum of America, America Republics, Mesabi Iron and St. Regis Paper.

Export Corn Inquiry Bolsters Grain Prices

CHICAGO, April 1—(AP)—Confirmation of renewed export inquiry for corn and Commodity Credit Corporation buying started a good rally in corn toward the close of today's Board of Trade session and all grains climbed to the highest levels of the day.

Commercial buying of both wheat and corn at the day's low spots developed mild rallies during the earlier part of the trading, but it was not until today's export interest in corn was definitely established that a sustained rally developed.

Deferred deliveries of wheat carried a steady undertone during the greater part of the session, while the May delivery was off as much as four and one-half cents at times on reports of excellent progress of the Winter wheat crop.

Corn bookings were placed at 19,000 bushels against 305,000 bushels sold.

FORD Offers the Lowest Priced Cars In Its Field!

The Ford three-window six-cylinder business coupe is now back in production. The price has been reduced twenty dollars below the price which prevailed last fall when production on this model was temporarily suspended.

This reduction, together with those of January 15 ranging up to fifty dollars, makes the Ford business coupe and the two-door sedan the lowest priced cars in their field.

This is in keeping with Ford's policy of offering the greatest value at the lowest possible cost.
